Republicans Work on Own Redistricting Bill

Measure May be Offered Today; Public Hearing Would be Held Monday

MADISON (AP)—The Wisconsin Senate met briefly this morning, then adjourned until an afternoon session to give Republicans more time to work on reapportionment plans they intend to introduce in the two-day old special legislative session.

Sen. Jerris Leonard, R-Milwaukee, said a caucus committee of the GOP proposal as an attempt to merge with a Legislative Council proposal the reapportionment aligning congressional districts, plans he and Assemblyman Glen Pommerehne offered earlier in for Assembly and Senate seats remained, Leonard said.

He added that details of the GOP congressional plan would be made public later. The Assembly was expected to put in a brief morning meeting, too, and recess so members could work with other lawmakers on reapportionment proposals.

Leonard said printing of the plan would be expedited during the interim to make copies available in advance of the hearing.

The Milwaukee senator described the GOP proposal as an attempt to merge with a Legislative Council proposal the reapportionment aligning congressional districts, plans he and Assemblyman Glen Pommerehne offered earlier in for Assembly and Senate seats remained, Leonard said.

Recess Session Gov. Gaylord Nelson asked Monday that the lawmakers give first consideration to the committee's recommended redistricting. "Any other approach is almost certain to result in endless debate and maneuvering for partisan advantage," the Democratic chief executive said.

The Republican decision to make a separate proposal was in keeping with the independent attitude the majority displayed in wrestling control of the session from the governor.

In issuing his call last week, Nelson labeled the meeting a special session. Republicans branded the description invalid and moved quickly to invoke a resolution empowering the Legislature to recall itself by majority petition.

Authority Questioned The action made the meeting a recess session, or a continuation of the meeting begun last year and put the GOP in the position of dictating terms.

The Republican leadership said the change would remove all doubt about the legality of the meeting. The GOP position was that the governor had no right to summon lawmakers back to Madison since the 1961 session was not officially adjourned when they left the capital in January.

The governor's call was prompted by a directive from a panel

West's Solidarity Stressed as Rusk Starts Tour Abroad

Secretary of State Plans To Confer With Allied Chiefs

PARIS (AP)—U.S. Secretary of State Dean Rusk arrived today to begin a fence-mending tour of Western Europe. He declared Allied solidarity remains unshaken.

In a brief statement on arrival at Orly Field, Rusk said he intended to confer with Allied leaders on "our common goals and our common commitments" as they affect the North Atlantic community and other parts of the world.

He said he wanted to look into the next steps in Allied relationships which he said were entering "a new chapter."

Major Problem "In other words—where do we go from here?" the secretary asked, indicating that this would be his main concern in his talks in France, West Germany, Italy, Britain and Portugal.

On his 10-day tour Rusk will tackle a number of problems that plague relations among the Western Allies.

Near the top of the list will be efforts to forge a common nuclear weapons policy, an issue on which Washington and Paris are far apart. No quick agreement is expected.

France's President Charles de Gaulle is determined his nation should have its own nuclear force.

Girls Rescue Scout Leader From River

ANTIGO (AP)—A Girl Scout leader knocked unconscious and injured when a canoe swamped in the swift and rock-studded Wolf River was pulled to safety by two of her charges Monday.

Mrs. E. R. Saunders, 35, of Madison, who was unconscious for 45 minutes, was brought to a hospital here with a possible broken hip.

She was rescued by Christy Rennebohm and Marsha Rogers, both 16, of Madison. They were in the canoe with Mrs. Saunders when it went down.

Mrs. Saunders was dashed against rocks in the river when the boat went under. Christy and Marsha finally succeeded in dragging her to a boulder while other scouts in the party paddled to shore to telephone police who lifted her from the water and took her to a hospital.

The river party was made up of 10 Scouts and two leaders, with three passengers in each of four canoes. The accident scene is about 18 miles northeast of Antigo, but only a short distance from the headquarters established by the party. They were staying in a barn opened to them by the owner when rain and wind storms hit the area Sunday night.

The group planned to return to Madison today.

All of the girls are Mariner Scouts and members of the Blackhawk Girl Scout Council of Madison.

No Compromise On Tax Revision

WASHINGTON (AP)—The Kennedy administration has rejected a proposed compromise on its embattled tax revision bill, senators said today. The decision left the measure's future highly uncertain.

About the only certainty was that the bill faced still further delay because the Finance Committee is going to put it aside again Wednesday.

The measure has been passed by the House but has been held up in the Senate since April. Sen. John J. Williams, R-Del., senior Republican on the Finance Committee, told a newsmen the administration was advised it could have the less controversial parts of the bill.

Tiros V Sent Into Orbit at Cape Canaveral

Cloud Cover Pictures Expected to Help in Hurricane Warnings

CAPE CANAVERAL, Fla. (AP)—Hurricane-hunting Tiros V rocketed into orbit today to seek the cause of the killer storms and perhaps help devise means of taming them.

A three-stage Thor-Delta rocket blasted off at 7:18 a.m. carrying the fifth in the series of weather-eye satellites.

Pictureselayed The National Aeronautics and Space Administration announced more than two hours later that the satellite was in orbit and had transmitted its first series of cloud cover pictures.

A pair of television cameras in the Tiros V made pictures as the satellite completed its first orbit and relayed them instantly to a tracking station at Wallops Island, Va.

Weather experts hope the pictures will provide valuable information on the origin, development and movement of tropical storms born in the 1962 season, which opened last week.

The robot weatherman achieved orbit despite a malfunction in the Thor-Delta guidance system.

Project official Robert Gray reported that 20 seconds after launching, a short circuit developed in ground equipment designed to beam radio commands to the guidance package.

"After that, the rocket had to rely on its automatic pilot to fly its proper course," Gray said.

He said the auto pilot is fed all flight commands before launch and can carry out the mission.

Georgia to Plan Voting Procedure

ATLANTA, Ga. (AP)—Georgia's 130-member Democratic Executive Committee will meet before the end of the month to draw up ground rules for what is almost certain to be the first popular vote selection of a governor in 54 years.

Under terms of an April three-judge federal court decree voiding the county unit system of tabulating Democratic primary returns, the committee can provide for a popular vote or adopt a modified unit system plan to give more weight to the vote of city dwellers.

Gov. Ernest Vandiver told a news conference that both plans are under consideration.

The governor said the U.S. Supreme Court's refusal Monday to speed up an appeal on the anti-states, we will sign a peace treaty with the German Democratic Republic, ending the occupation status of West Berlin.

NEENAH — Gardner Vought, 9-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. Donald Vought, 1041 Laurel Court, Neenah, was killed at 11 a.m. today when his bicycle was hit by a car driven by Gordon C. Loscy, 37, Milwaukee.

The accident occurred at the intersection of W. Cecil Street and U. S. 41.

The boy, Winnebago County's 10th traffic victim of the year, was headed west on Cecil Street, on his way home from playing tennis, when he was hit by Loscy's northbound car.

County Portion The accident occurred on the Winnebago County portion of the intersection, 12 feet north of the Neenah city limits.

The boy was taken in the Neenah ambulance to Theda Clark Hospital where he was pronounced dead on arrival.

The bicycle was carried 139 feet by the car into the boulevard separating the two lanes. Both the car and the bicycle ended in the ditch in the west side of the northbound lane.

Winnebago County Coroner Dr. G. A. Steele, who investigated, said death was instantaneous from a severe head injury.

Loscy and his son, William, 11, were on their way to Cedar River, Mich., on a fishing trip.

4 Escape Reds Amid Gunfire

9 Others Thwarted; Communist Guard Slain by Accident

BERLIN (AP)—A West Berlin student led four East Germans through a tunnel to safety in the West Monday night after escaping a hail of gunfire from Red border guards who accidentally killed one of their own men.

Two other students helped the refugees scramble through the 90-foot tunnel under the Red wall dividing Berlin moments before the East German border guards sprayed the underground escape route with machinegun fire and tear gas grenades.

9 Others Fail The Communist action thwarted the flight of nine other East Germans, and at least five of them were taken into custody.

The West Berlin students had dug the tunnel from the American sector of West Berlin to a house on the Communist side. The students said the work took a month, and that they arranged to use the tunnel for the first time Monday to bring out 13 East Germans, mostly women and children.

"We didn't know when we broke through whether the Vopos (East German police) would be waiting for us with Tommy guns at the ready or bash in our skulls with their jackboots, one student said.

Two students waited at the western end of the tunnel to help hand the escapees through on a metal stretcher pulled by ropes.

The guide said he was leading the group to the building when an East German guard challenged them. The student fumbled for his identification papers to distract attention from the women and children. They reached the building about the time Red guards in a nearby pillbox opened fire.

"The Vopos were hit and fell on the sidewalk," the guide said. "I ran for my life with bullets whizzing after me."

New Effort Scheduled For Nuclear Blast

HONOLULU (AP)—The United States tries again late tonight to set off the biggest nuclear blast of its current Pacific series but the weatherman isn't optimistic.

"It doesn't look too favorable," said a forecaster at the U.S. Weather Bureau in Honolulu. "Those same clouds are still over Johnston Island and reports indicate they are not moving."

Area-Population Plan Urged for State Senate

MADISON (AP)—The Wisconsin Assembly Rules Committee today voted to introduce a resolution calling for a constitutional amendment to allow State Senate seats to be apportioned on an area basis as well as population.

The resolution was offered by Elmer Nitschke, R-Beaver Dam. It would have to be adopted by the current session of the Legislature and the 1963 session before being submitted to voters in a statewide referendum.

Assembly districts would continue to be apportioned on a population basis under terms of the resolution but a change would be affected to permit Assembly districts to cross county lines.

A similar constitutional amendment gained public approval in a 1953 referendum. But the late Fred R. Zimmerman, then secretary of state, challenged the validity of the changes and the Wisconsin Supreme Court held the proposed changes unconstitutional.

'View,' a Local Feature

Sunday Post-Crescent Plans New Magazine

Beginning Sunday, July 1, The Post-Crescent Sunday Edition will include a new magazine with news of a wide variety of people and activities in the Fox Cities area.

In announcing the new Sunday feature, Post-Crescent Editor V. I. Minahan said, "We have been most pleased and encouraged with the public acceptance of our Sunday newspaper. Every week we receive further evidence from readers and advertisers that our Sunday product is meeting with approval."

Covers Many Activities "We know, however, that there were improvements that should be made and we have made changes as quickly as personnel and equipment allowed."

"Our Sunday entertainment section, 'Showtime,' was one of the features we decided could be improved. It, too, has received many favorable comments. But we thought there were so many activities, so many people doing interesting things throughout Wisconsin and especially in our area, that we should bring these facets of life to the attention of our readers in as interesting and vivid a way as possible. Our new Sunday magazine is the result of that decision."

Named "View," the new magazine will greatly expand upon the format already used successfully with "Showtime." A portion of the original magazine, including an improved TV pull-out section and radio log, will be incorporated into the new format.

True to its name, the new magazine will scan the entire field of activities — cultural, social, recreational — in which

Congress Worried By Country's Mood

Opposing Party Leaders in Disagreement on Cause and Cure of Legislative Malaise

WASHINGTON (AP)—Opposing party leaders agreed today that the present mood of the country is one of uneasiness and uncertainty. They disagreed on the cause and cure of the malaise.

Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said Congress must act quickly on President Kennedy's legislative program to "dispel some of the uncertainty which has been accumulating in recent months throughout the nation."

"The people wonder why we aren't doing anything in Congress," Mansfield said. "It is time we got down to hard work to reach some final decisions on the President's proposals."

Senate Republican Leader Everett

M. Dirksen of Illinois said in a separate interview that "it isn't what Congress is not doing but what it might do that is causing uneasiness in the country."

"There is uneasiness in some quarters about the administration's proposal to withhold taxes on interest and dividends," he said. "The people wonder why the debt limit keeps going up and up and they are worried by the fact that we have to pay $10 billion in interest yearly on what we owe."

"There are fears and doubts about the President's trade program. There is a great deal of opposition to his proposal to finance health care for the elderly by increasing Social Security taxes."

Farm Bill

"Nobody knows what the House is going to do about the farm bill. All of these add up to a general mood of uncertainty and uneasiness."

Mansfield told senators Monday they can look forward to 9 or 10-hour work days, beginning on Wednesday, about double the average of five-hour sessions thus far this year. He said the Senate will meet on Saturdays and have only a one-day holiday July 4.

What worried the Democratic leader most was a backlog of a half dozen measures carrying a June 30 deadline tag. These include extension of corporation and excise taxes, a debt limit increase to $308 billion, a sugar quota bill, continuation of the Defense Production Act, extension of presidential export controls and a military construction authorization measure.

Irked by Feud

Mansfield obviously was irked by the feud between the Senate and House Appropriations Committees over whether to meet in the Senate or House wings of the Capitol to compose differences of the two houses over money bills.

Both he and House Speaker John W. McCormack, D-Mass., have been trying to get a compromise which would permit these bills to be put in final form for a presidential signature.

An hour's meeting Monday between representatives of the two committees failed to bring any agreement on where the meetings will be held or who will preside over them.

U. S. Policy on Nuclear War Hit in Britain

Decision to Spare Civilian Targets Causes Concern

BY WILLIAM H. STONEMAN
Chicago Daily News Service

LONDON — Deep distress appears to have been caused in American decision to concentrate on military rather than civilian targets in any Western nuclear reply to an initial Russian nuclear attack.

The switch in American strategy — revealed by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara in Ann Arbor, Mich., last Saturday — does not appear to have been discussed in advance with Britain, which has regarded itself as a full member of the Western nuclear club.

It leaves Britain in an embarrassing position because the British nuclear deterrent, which would have to be delivered by a fleet of fewer than 100 obsolescent sub-sonic bombers, could be used only against relatively large urban targets.

Small Targets

It is not designed to be employed against such difficult pinpointed targets as the remote and hard-to-locate missile installations, that the United States now says it would plan to attack in its initial nuclear reply to a soviet nuclear attack.

Since the new American concept would make the British deterrent practically useless during the initial stage of a nuclear interchange, it would, in effect, deprive Britain of its highly prized membership in the nuclear club and all of the prestige and perquisites that go with it. Consequently it is certain to meet with a lot of opposition if and when the United States decides to discuss it with the British government.

It is almost certain to result in much unpleasantness when Secretary of State Dean Rusk stops in London during his current visit to NATO capitals.

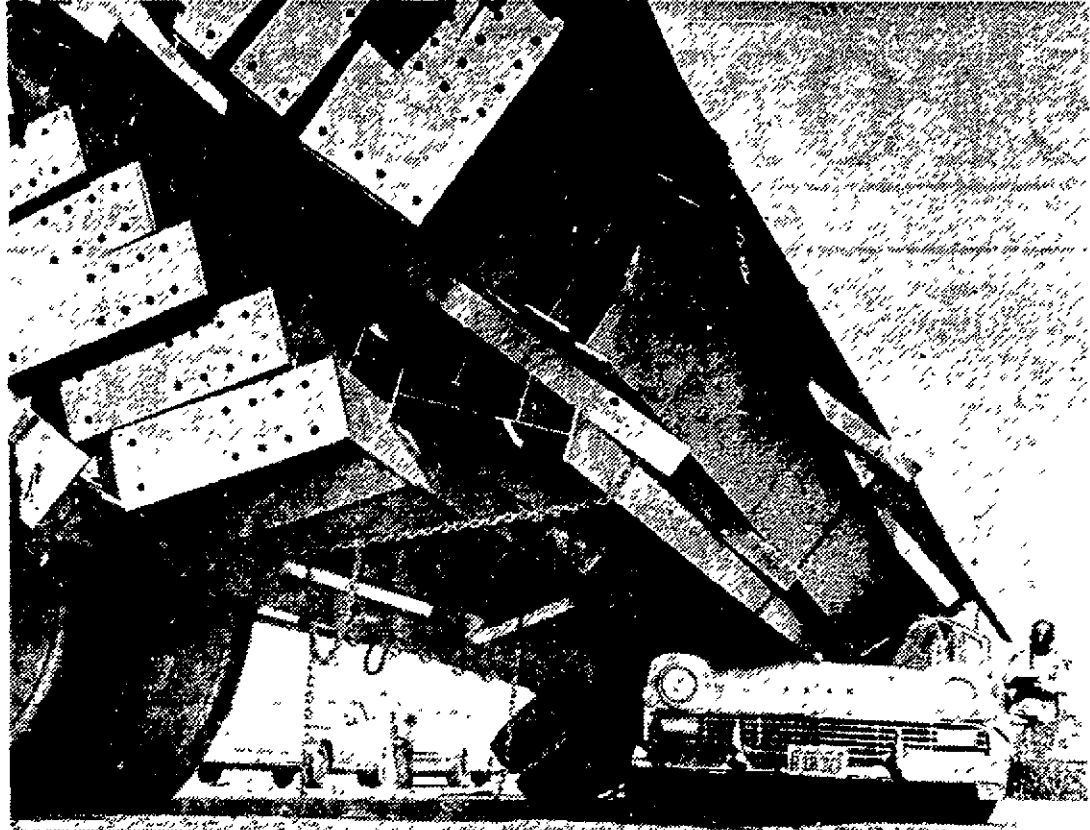

Surprise Decision

The Daily Mail's defense correspondent Stevenson Pugh reported that "the ban on civilian targets for American H-bombs has caught Britain's defense chiefs by surprise."

"At present," he continued, "the secret targets given to air crews in Britain's bomber command are mainly Soviet cities. These facts appear to knock the bottom out of official British claims that the new United States strategy would make no difference on this side of the Atlantic because our nuclear forces are so closely integrated."

The Daily Express defense correspondent Chapman Pincher reported that "the R.A.F.'s plan to H-bomb Russian cities if Britain is attacked first is not to be changed as a result of the new bombing policy advocated by Minister McNamara."

"Minister McNamara," he added, "wants the east and west to formulate a set of nuclear Queensbury Rules so that H-bombs would be dropped only on military targets. The British defense chiefs are strongly opposed to this. Their main reason is that the sole purpose of the H-bomb force is to deter a Russian attack. The Russians are less likely to risk an attack if they believe their cities will be devastated. Furthermore Britain is so small and the blast of the H-bomb so big that military targets cannot be separated from cities."

William T. Honda, Los Angeles, driver of the crushed pickup truck at right, escaped death Monday when the load of 30-foot steel beams shifted on the trailer hauling them and smashed into the truck. Honda told Highway Patrol officer Karl Radde, right, that he saw the load beginning to shift on the big truck in a parallel lane but couldn't get away from the sliding beams. Truck driver Delmar F. Long said he ran to the smashed truck to find Honda climbing out unscathed.

Non-Operating Railroad Help Get Layoffs

Furloughs Make Up For $3.8 Million In Wage Increases

CHICAGO (AP) — Several railroads have begun laying off non-operating employees to compensate for a 102 cents an hour wage boost negotiated by 11 unions representing 450,000 off-train workers.

The Illinois Central Railroad said Monday it had furloughed 650 employees. Wayne Johnston, president of the line, said it would lay off enough workers to make up the $3.8 million annual cost of the wage increases.

Several railroads said they plan to begin furloughing workers. Others said they will study the effect of the wage hike before deciding whether to make work force cut-backs.

Board Recommendations

The one-year agreement which was reached June 5 followed recommendations of an emergency board appointed by President Kennedy. James E. Wolfe, spokesman for the nation's railroads, estimated the settlement would cost the lines $105 million a year.

The Rock Island Line reported it has laid off 300 workers since May to offset an estimated $2.4 million payroll raise. President H. Ellis Johnson said he expected total layoffs to reach 400 within a month.

A third Chicago-based railroad, the Milwaukee Road, also has begun layoffs. A company spokesman said the line expects to drop 300 or more to make up an estimated $2.5 million in additional wages.

Northern Pacific reports 54 non-operating employees have been furloughed and further cuts are expected.

North Western Plans

The Chicago & North Western said no layoffs have been started yet, but a plan is under discussion. A company official said the wage settlement will cost the firm $2 million or more annually.

The Burlington Road reported the layoff problem is being discussed and the Erie-Lackawanna

Four-Power Agreement

Campaigning by Reds Allowed in West Berlin

BY DAVID M. NICHOL
Chicago Daily News Service

BONN — The Communist Party will be permitted to reopen its 12 district offices in West Berlin, which were authorized by a 1946 four-power agreement.

An appellate court has held that the West Berlin police acted correctly in closing the party offices 10 days after the building of the communist wall last August.

Temper were running so high when it was feared the mere existence of the offices might incite to riot and to breaches of the peace.

Police Capable

But the court felt the police now were capable of dealing with any such problems and that the party bureaus could be reopened.

The Communist Party is illegal in West Germany where it was decided in a long court case that the party was pursuing unconstitutional aims. In West Berlin, however, the four-power agreement that licensed the Communists and three other parties in 1946 is held still to be valid.

In the Western view the agreement applies to the whole of the city. But the Social Democrats, the majority party in West Berlin, have been excluded from the Railroad said studies were being planned.

A Santa Fe spokesman said, "Higher costs of labor and a slump in carloading may cause some work force adjustments."

In St. Louis, Missouri Pacific announced it has begun laying-off workers to offset a $3.3 million addition to its payroll. The St. Louis-San Francisco Railway announced it also is laying off non-operating employees.

political life of East Berlin since 1948. After the Communist coup of last August the Socialists voluntarily closed their offices rather than expose their followers to further persecutions.

Unquestioned by Reds

The licensing agreement is one of the very few items of four-power legislation that the Communists have not questioned as it applied in West Berlin.

The court decision clears the way for the Communists to campaign for the next West Berlin elections, scheduled next Feb. 17. East Berlin Radio hailed this today as a great victory.

In fact, it may be the prelude to another stunning defeat. The last West Berlin elections were held in December, 1958, shortly after Nikita Khrushchev's initial ultimatum announcing the Soviet plans to sign a separate peace with East Germany.

Less Than 2 Per Cent

In what was considered to be an expression by the Berliners about the Khrushchev "free city" proposals, the Communists polled less than 2 per cent of the total.

Half in jest, half seriously, it has been suggested this year that the Communists be refused space on public billboards except for the Western side of the Communist Wall.

Grand Jury Upholds Suicide Verdict in Henry Marshall Death

Farm Official Shot 5 Times in Head With Bolt-Action Rifle

FRANKLIN, Tex. (AP)—A suicide verdict still stands in the mystery shooting of Agriculture Department official Henry H. Marshall last year.

After a month-long probe in the reopened case, the Robertson County grand jury decided Monday night that evidence was "inconclusive to substantiate a different decision at this time."

The jury began the investigation after West Texas promoter Billie Sol Estes was indicted on fraud and theft charges. Marshall, 52, had been checking into cotton allotment dealings of Estes.

Praise for Jury
Dist. Judge John M. Barron, who joined Dist. Atty. Bryan Russ in convening the jurors, dismissed the group with praise for its work, remarking that the case "has resolved itself into a police action."

"If any evidence warranting an indictment comes up, the grand jury can come right back," Barron said.

Marshall was found dead June 3, 1961, at a lonely spot on his ranch near here. He had been shot five times with a bolt action .22 caliber rifle which lay nearby. The inquest verdict by a justice of the peace was suicide.

Body Exhumed
Judge Barron ordered the body exhumed with the consent of Mrs. Marshall, who has insisted her husband was not the type to take his life. A Houston pathologist, Dr. J. A. Jachimczyk, performed an autopsy.

The physician said he did not believe Marshall could have shot himself five times but there was a bare possibility of suicide. Dr. Jachimczyk found Marshall had inhaled a near-lethal amount of carbon monoxide gas and suffered a deep bruise on the forehead.

Marshall was state chief of production adjustments for the agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service. He was one of the first officials to look into Estes' manipulations of cotton acreage allotments.

Illegal Allotments
The Agriculture Department has since fined Estes $554,172, holding he obtained cotton allotments illegally.

Estes appeared before the grand jury last week. He refused to answer more than 100 questions on the ground of possible self-incrimination, Texas Atty. Gen. Will Wilson disclosed. Grand jurors questioned by his lawyer said they did not consider Estes a suspect in the death of Marshall.

Another development stemming from the Estes proceedings was the formal discharge Monday of W. P. Mattox as vice chairman of the Reeves County ASCS Committee. He had been suspended after being accused of accepting expenses from Estes for a trip to Washington.

Hungry People to Receive 40 Million Pounds of U. S. Cheese

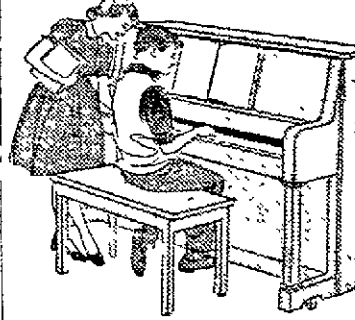

WASHINGTON (AP) — Forty million pounds of government-owned cheese will be used to feed hungry people abroad through the Food for Peace program, Rep. Robert Kastenmeier, D-Wis., reported today.

Large stocks of cheese have been building up the past year through operations of the Commodity Credit Corp. in its dairy price support program.

Kastenmeier said use of cheese in the surplus disposal program abroad was discontinued five years ago even though cheese had high acceptability in many countries.

Under the new program, Kastenmeier said, the Agriculture Department will distribute the cheese as soon as voluntary agencies such as CARE submit their programs and requests.

Legislature Will Not Act on Reapportionment Quickly

BY JOHN WYNGAARD
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

MADISON — The legislature probably will rewrite the congressional and legislative district map of Wisconsin, as commanded by the federal courts and demanded by Democratic Gov. Nelson and Atty. Gen. John W. Reynolds, but it won't be stamped into quick action.

That was the dominant mood of the Republican-controlled legislative branch of the state government as the senate and assembly convened Monday.

The Republican leadership, in a series of blunt speeches, made it clear that the reapportionment job will be undertaken with care; and that the legislation to be sent to Gov. Nelson may be in a different form than he has asked.

Will Continue Fight
If that tempts him into a veto, according to the prevailing Republican mood, the Republicans will be willing to continue the fight.

"No governor and no attorney general is going to tell us what's right and what's wrong," asserted Assemblyman Robert Haase, Marinette, Republican majority leader in the assembly, after Nelson concluded his speech in person before the joint session of the two houses.

"I'm not going to jump because somebody cracked the whip," he added, referring to Reynolds' action in the U.S. courts that brought an ultimatum from a panel of three federal judges that the legislature perform the reapportionment task, or invite a judicial decree establishing new lawmaking districts.

Assemblyman Alfonso, Eagle River, assistant Republican leader in the lower house, made it clear that he intends the legislature will approve a reapportionment ment differing from the one Nelson recommended Monday.

"If he vetoes it, he'll get another, and another, and another," he said, hinting that the session may be dragged out in such a contingency.

The Republicans adopted a resolution which had the effect of putting the legislature into session upon its own motion, rather than under the emergency call of Nelson as the state executive.

Gives Broader Powers
The effect of its decision to sit under its own power, rather than under the governor's call, is to broaden its scope of possible activity. Now it can entertain constitutional amendments, as well as straight population districting proposals, and the Republican majority leaders made it plain that they intend to do so.

The likely result of the session is the enactment of a reapportionment according to population that will affect legislative and congressional voting for this fall.

and the adoption of a concurrent resolution providing for some form of area representation that could be put into effect in the future—if the next legislature and a following popular referendum ratify the plan.

It seemed likely also that the statutory redistricting plan for the legislature would be a Republican model rather than the one endorsed by Nelson and introduced by assembly Democrats last night.

Parties' Plans
The Democratic plan would remove four assembly seats from rural northern and western Wisconsin, and one senate seat, and transfer them to Milwaukee and Waukesha counties.

A tentative Republican plan, incorporated in a bill by Assemblyman Pommerening last year, would give two assembly seats to Waukesha county, one additional seat each to Walworth and Outagamie counties, and none extra to metropolitan Milwaukee.

Most legislators of both parties seemed agreed that if congressional reapportionment is provided, it will result in the elimination of what is now the ninth district in northwestern Wisconsin and the creation of a new district in the southeastern urban area, which Republicans believe, and Democrats concede would probably mean the addition of a Republican to the Wisconsin congressional delegation which now has a sub to four Republican margin.

Complex Struggle
The redistricting struggle, however, is far more complex than those comparatively simple transfers of legislative seats might suggest.

About half of the districts would be reshuffled in some degree which means that individual legislators will want to examine the propositions carefully for their own political interests, and will make it extremely difficult to act with the speed that the governor has demanded.

The action of the Republican majorities in reconvening the legislature in regular session, moreover, also makes it possible to introduce general subjects outside the redistricting topic.

While legislators declared they have no desire to enter into general legislative fields, special interest groups are sometimes powerful in such situations and there is no assurance that the legislators can stand them off.

Laird Blasts JFK's Inaction Concerning Laos

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Melvin Laird, R-Wis., criticized the Kennedy administration's policy in Laos Monday but said this country cannot now repudiate the coalition government being set up there.

Laird said the United States could have agreed to have Southeast Asian Treaty Organization troops sent to Laos last summer without retaliation by Communist China.

Speaking in a recorded radio interview, Laird said the concentration of too much power in the White House "will destroy our whole fight for freedom at home."

'Club of Government'
"If we're going to start using the club of government to bring about certain policies, then we're in pretty bad shape in this country," Laird said.

Laird, chairman of the joint House-Senate Committee on Republican principles, said the GOP will make this a campaign issue this year.

He said some Kennedy administration steps have caused a loss of confidence in the U.S. business community and that this country's economy "cannot be stimulated merely through government spending."

DO WOMEN GOSSIP MORE THAN MEN?
YES ☐ NO ☐

No, probably not. They gossip about different things. Gossip is not primarily a matter of sex, but of personality and of interest. When a group of men get off by themselves, they are as likely to gossip as a group of women, even though they may call it "scuttle-but." Women are more likely to gossip about their intimate friends. Men seem more likely to gossip about sporting events — whether the fight or the game was "fixed," or how man-agers ought to run their ball clubs.

Employ Hangers, Cloth to Make Small Doll Hammock

Delay Hearing For Dairy President

MILWAUKEE — Appearance of Ben Cherkasky, president and treasurer of the Quaker Dairy Co., Appleton, to answer charges of evading social security and withholding taxes has been indefinitely postponed.

Cherkasky was to appear in U.S. District Court here Monday. His hearing will be set at the next term of the court.

Cherkasky is charged with 14 counts of evading social security taxes and 11 counts of evading withholding taxes from April, 1956, through December, 1959.

In that period Cherkasky is alleged to have filed quarterly federal tax returns listing total taxable wages paid to employees of $364,537 and social security tax deductions of $16,733. The government claims the wage total should have been $485,763 and the social security deductions $22,084.

Hospital Meals Are Well-Balanced

Food Is Most Nutritious Modern Science Can Produce

BY JAY REED

Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Probably no other department within a hospital is the victim of more jokes and exaggerated non-sensibilities than the kitchen where food is planned and prepared. But the fact is that hospital meals are the best balanced, most nutritious combination of foods that modern dietary science can produce.

The kitchen at St. Elizabeth Hospital, three times each day, turns out several hundred regular meals and scores of special therapeutic diets to care for the nutritional needs of every patient in the hospital plus all of its personnel and visitors.

It is a tremendously involved and painstakingly detailed task. Thirty persons, both full and parttime, are employed in the entire dietary department of which 13 work in the kitchen proper. Others are involved in special dietary work and, still others, work in the bakery, the salad room and the central dishwashing area.

The diet laboratory is the place from which all special or therapeutic diets are served. These combinations are worked out by the doctor in charge of a particular case and, often, the diet lab is required to plan a schedule of meals for patients even after they are discharged from the hospital.

As the special meals are prepared, lab personnel take them to the various floors and serve them. The master menu is prepared one week in advance and foods are purchased from local distributors. Dietary technologists, work out the meal combinations on the basis of nutritionalary value.

The same food prepared for general patient consumption also is served in the hospital cafeteria for staff personnel and visitors.

The first meal of the day reaches the wards or nursing service units about 7 a.m. or shortly after. The food goes up from the kitchen by means of dumb-waiters. There trays are filled and the meals distributed under stainless steel covers to individual patients not involved in the special therapeutic diet program. The noon meal is served starting about 11:15 and initial servings for the evening meal begin about 4:30 p.m.

A patient's view of a hospital tends to become distorted in many ways since he sees the entire hospital function only as it relates to himself. This distortion sometimes manifests itself in the food he eats. Patients complain they get too little food or they find fault with its quality.

Actually, what a patient eats is largely determined by his doctor and hospital personnel are bound to follow the physician's instructions in every patient case. The food you eat and the quantities in which it comes to you as a patient is designed to hasten your recovery. And your recovery is, after all, the ultimate goal of every department within the hospital.

As the special meals are prepared, lab personnel take them to the various floors and serve them. The master menu is prepared one week in advance and foods are purchased from local distributors. Dietary technologists, work out the meal combinations on the basis of nutritionalary value.

How rare was a bottle of Gordon's in 1769?

Rare?—there was no such thing. 1769 was the year Gordon's Gin first took its place in English life, but not in bottles. It was served from wooden casks in public houses. Bottles came along later, in the nineteenth century. But in all these 193 years, no matter how it was purveyed, Gordon's has always harked back to Alexander Gordon's original 1769 formula. Why tamper with such distinctive dryness and flavour? It has made Gordon's the biggest-selling gin in England, America, the world.

Licensing Automobile Drivers

Motor vehicle administrators from 11 states, the District of Columbia, and six Canadian provinces, after a meeting in Washington recently, announced that they had adopted a uniform written test for licensing drivers.

It is not long ago that most states licensed automobile drivers upon the payment of the required fee. Only recently have tests become general. Today, however, most states have fairly adequate tests which must be passed by those seeking driver licenses. As the Motor Vehicle Departments grow stronger, and as the toll of dead and injured on the highways increases, a driver's test can be expected to become more and more severe. It is quite possible that in the not too distant future some state will insist that all drivers on its highways either pass its licensing examination or present a driver's license from a state with an adequate licensing system.

Since automobile drivers roam all of the states and provinces the suggestion for a universal written license seems a wise one. It is safe to predict that it will be some time before all of the states and the provinces of Canada unite in accepting any such single examination, but it is quite probable that the day will come. In the meantime, those states with adequate testing for licenses will begin to complain shortly of "foreign" drivers on their roads who are not qualified to operate automobiles. Such action certainly will speed up the day of the universal test and presumably will add to the safety of all people on the highways everywhere.

Sea Lamprey in the Great Lakes

Scientists have proved they can control the sea lamprey but probably never can eliminate the pest from the Great Lakes. The lamprey was imported from the Atlantic Ocean by incoming ships on the St. Lawrence Seaway. It has practically eliminated lake trout from Lakes Huron and Michigan and has greatly reduced the trout population in Lake Superior.

Recently, however, scientists have discovered poisons which can destroy the young lamprey without injuring other life in the streams. The discovery of these poisons, which can destroy from four to seven generations of lamprey with one application, encouraged the governments of the United States and Canada to spend millions of dollars to treat all streams flowing into Lake Superior. It was known that literally billions of newly hatched lamprey were being destroyed by the poisons but the final success of the program depended upon how many mature lamprey were escaping into the lake.

It was known that the lamprey usually spent 18 months in the lake preying on whatever fish it could find before returning to streams to spawn. The earlier method of destroying the lamprey had consisted of the use of electric weirs used to kill the adult lamprey returning to spawn. These weirs were continued in use as a means of checking upon the returning lamprey. This year, 18 months after the completion of the poisoning program, the weirs were anxiously watched.

The program was proclaimed a success when in the last week of May only 1,030 lampreys were taken in the weirs in 30 streams running into Lake Superior. This count compared with 8,919 in that period last year. The experts operating this program are reported to be highly pleased with the results. They do not claim any more than the ability to control the number of lamprey because they continually are being brought into the lakes on ocean vessels and the experts admit it is unlikely they ever will be able to stamp them out completely.

However, the program is considered so successful that it will be continued in Lake Michigan streams and applied also on the shores of Lake Huron.

In Lake Superior the results are considered sufficient to warrant the planting of trout in an effort to restore the Lake Superior trout fishery. This is good news and indicates that the time is not too far distant when trout fishing will be possible in Lake Michigan also.

Brides, Health and Insurance

It is estimated that about 200,000 marriages will take place in the United States during the month of June. June is not only the month of brides, it also is one of the healthiest months of the year. Even so, brides are urged by Health Insurance Institute to acquaint themselves as soon as possible with the details of the health insurance carried by their husbands. If a husband has a personal policy, application should be made to the insurance company to have the wife insured or the policy converted to a family policy. Likewise, if the husband obtains insurance at his place of employment, the husband should request his employer to change the coverage from individual to family. This bit of attention makes the difference of hundreds of dollars to the new family.

As an indication of how important it is, during the first three months of 1962, a total of $947 million was paid in benefits by insurance companies. This was 10.6 per cent higher than the $854 million distributed in the first three months of 1961.

Do-Gooders Must be Careful

Most of the large oil companies prepare highway maps for free distribution to motorists. This is a great service to motorists and also to map communities interested in tourism. It also is a very expensive undertaking for the oil companies. But most oil companies feel they must perform this service in order to stay in competition with the other vendors of gasoline and oil.

Although the service is free, the motorists using the maps are not willing to accept anything less than absolute accuracy in details. The oil companies know that a small error which inconveniences motorists will bring thousands of telephone calls of complaint. Therefore, they spend tremendous sums and endless hours checking details in order to avoid any such errors. A state map may require as many as 1,000 revisions to keep it up to date. Some require as much as 4,800 man hours of work for one year. Frequently cities require up to 2,000 man hours.

One large oil company reports that one of its state maps indicated a certain bridge was free of toll charges. Through error, the map was circulated one month before the toll charge was removed. A flood of complaining letters was received and were continuing to be received six months after the toll charge had been eliminated.

While the maps are "free" they are in fact a form of advertising intended to attract business to the particular oil company. This obviously is well recognized by motorists who feel free to plague the producer by telephone or by letter for any slightest error. The way the motorists sound-off in such instances it must be clear they feel they are paying for everything they get including the so-called free maps.

What Others are Saying
Costs, Price Cuts
Pressure Business

From the Tacoma (Wash.) News Tribune

Industry is being forced to play the new American business game, "Pass the Pressure," Carl A. Gerstacker, chairman of the Dow Chemical Company asserted recently in a West Coast speech. He even suggested that some toy manufacturer out here might want to develop a game-board for it. "It might, who knows, be the successor to "Monopoly" and it is in reality at least as dangerous to play as Russian roulette," Gerstacker said.

The game works like this. The automobile manufacturers grant a 4 per cent raise to their employees. They can raise the price of autos, but they already have stiff competition from abroad. So they cut costs, reduce payroll numbers, invest more money in automation. Then they take a long look at the cost of materials and bring pressure on steel and rubber companies to lower their prices. Steel is caught in the wage-profit squeeze and looks for ways to come out. They go to the coal and chemical companies, who in turn go to the railroads, who ask their equipment manufacturers to cut prices.

"Gradually," says the Dow chairman, "just about all of American industry is caught between the upper and lower millstones — higher costs and lower prices" and finds itself playing the new American game.

"In the long term, obviously, the price-squeeze spiral can cause us irreparable damage. If we permit it to proceed too far we can find ourselves in an economic quicksand from which there may be no escape. And in this case we in American business will not be in any position to face up to the great challenges before us."

These are wise words. The nation must and does call on industry to face great challenges. Our government should persevere these words of advice and see what can be done to break up so risky a game as "Pass the Pressure."

Several Hazards at Junk Yards

Editor, Post-Crescent:

I read, with interest and approval, two articles in recent issues of the Post-Crescent.

One was an editorial complimenting a group of businessmen working on Project 70. These men are contacting property owners in the College Ave. business section urging them to modernize their places of business. They are doing a fine job and our only regret is that their efforts are confined to the business section instead of the entire city of Appleton.

The other article pertained to the refusal of licenses to junk yards until certain fire precautions are taken care of.

Some years ago our city officials deemed it necessary because of fire and health conditions, to ban cow barns and chicken coops within the city limits of Appleton. Automobile "graveyards" were also included in this group.

Today, the junk yards present a far greater fire and health hazard than any of the above group. Two of these yards are located just a short distance from Pierce Park and the Jefferson School, the other just two blocks from Linwood Park and the Senior High School. The grounds of which we spend thousands of dollars yearly to beautify and maintain. It is also situated in the center of a group of homes ranging from $18,000 to $35,000 in valuation. At the end of the day the lawns and shrubbery of these homes, which we strive to keep neat and clean, are littered with refuse blown from these vermin infested junk yards.

Several fires have occurred in past years in these same yards, yet, according to reports, corrective measures required by the Fire Dept. have not been taken to prevent a recurrence.

Fire Chief Roland Kuehn and his inspectors are doing a fine job with their periodical inspections of business places, and their suggestions are gladly complied with, knowing that it is for our own protection and safety. There is no reason why the junk yards should not be forced to follow these same rules of fire and health protection.

The surrounding homes are in constant danger of this threat and these people are paying taxes to prevent just this sort of thing. This condition also is forcing a lowering in property values of nearby homes.

We sincerely hope, that with the combined efforts of the Welfare and Ordinance Committee, the Fire and Health Departments, we can abolish these eyesores, making Appleton a cleaner and better place in which to live.

Under the Capitol Dome
Legislative Session
May Turn Political

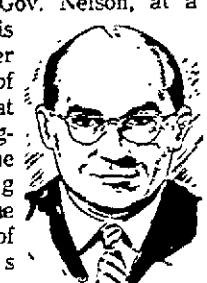

BY JOHN WYNGAARD

MADISON — The return of the legislature under a special session call of Gov. Nelson, at a time that it is in recess under a decision of its own that can be changed, raises the intriguing question of the jurisdiction of the senators and assemblymen of this most durable legislature in the history of the state.

Under the constitutional rules, the legislature in special session is confined to the matter that the governor enumerates in its call — as far as statutory action is concerned. No power on earth, of course, can prevent the legislature from talking on any topic of its choice.

Thus while the reapportionment issue that the governor has chosen for the special session is before it, the guess is that the rights of the lawmakers to act will be limited to that subject.

But when that subject has been disposed of? It is a question that never before has occurred in capitol politics, as far as anybody now knows.

Wyngaard

POSSIBILITY

As a guess, the legislature could adjourn after completing the special session calendar, and then reconvene on its own initiative, and under the recess resolution adopted by both houses last January.

It could then take up such subjects as it chose, without hindrance from the executive office or anyone else, and tuned to the fact that there is an election campaign imminent.

The state senate might, for example, take up some of the governor's interim nominations that require confirmation by the senate, and have not yet been confirmed because the senate was not in session to receive them.

One of them involves the nomination of a new regent to the University of Wisconsin board of regents who provided the fifth and bare majority vote that recently enabled the governor's men on that board to reorganize it and put one of his friends into the seat of board chairman.

It might be wondered also, whether Atty. Gen. John W. Reynolds, who wants to repeal the tax law compromise achieved so painfully by Gov. Nelson only a few months ago, might persuade some like-minded Democrat to offer such a repeal bill on his behalf.

Republicans might enjoy such a test, for it would show whether Reynolds actually wants to get rid of the selective sales tax he is denouncing, or whether he merely wants to use it for a convenient campaign speech peg at a time when convenient issues upon which to run his campaign for the governorship are fairly scarce.

YET MORE

But the most fascinating possibility in the special session is that the Republican legislature might write, quite within the framework of accuracy and fairness, a redistricting bill that the Democrats who want reapportionment will be reluctant to accept.

It is not generally understood that the Congressional reapportionment issue is not necessarily included in the reapportionment of the legislature, in the technical or constitutional sense. Yet if the legislature is forced to draw a new districting map, it almost surely will include a remapping of Congressional districts, and in such a way that it will have political immunity while yet embarrassing the Democratic party. The most respectable of the non-political proposals include a redistricting of the Congressional seats in such a way that the Republicans will be favored to pick up one seat, to increase their margin in the state delegation.

Could Gov. Nelson veto such a proposition? It seems scarcely possible. His party forced the issue. It would be in a poor position to complain about the consequences. Moreover, the Republicans are starting the session in a mood that strongly suggests that they are willing to provide the no-holds-barred fight for which the Democrats have been spoiling.

Court Test of Unit System in Georgia Vital

Outcome Expected to Set State Pattern
For Reapportionment

BY RAYMOND J. CROWLEY
WASHINGTON (AP)—Farmers and city dwellers alike should keep their eyes on a case the Supreme Court has just decided to review. The outcome is likely to be of enormous political importance.

It may give a tip-off on just how much political power the man-with-the-hoe (or in modern parlance the man driving the tractor combine) must surrender to his city and suburban cousins.

The Supreme Court has already ruled that courts have jurisdiction to handle complaints of metropolitan residents that state voting systems are "invidiously" unbalanced.

Ferment Widespread

In more than 30 states, there is ferment. City and suburban citizens have started lawsuits, forced special sessions of state legislatures—or threatened to, launched movements for state constitutional amendments or taken other steps. Their aim: to get more representation in state legislatures, in keeping with their vastly increased numbers.

One big trouble is that, so far, there are no sure guidelines on what constitutes invidious, unconstitutional discrimination.

Must state voting systems give each man's vote the same weight as every other man's, or nearly so? Can one house of a state legislature be apportioned on a population basis (like the U.S. House of Representatives) and the other according to geography (like the U.S. Senate)? Nobody knows for certain.

Georgia System

On April 28, a three-judge federal court threw out a century-old county unit system in Georgia, even though it had been slightly modified. This system was used in Democratic primaries for governor and other offices. Under the old system a rural resident's vote could be worth 99 city votes.

The Democratic party of Georgia appealed to the U.S. Supreme Court. The tribunal agreed Monday to hear the case, but not until the term starting next October. This apparently means that, with the county unit system out the window at least temporarily, Georgia will select its governor Sept. 12 on a basis of popular votes.

The three-judge lower court suggested that a unit system would not be invidious if the difference in the weight of individual votes in various counties were no greater than in the U.S. Electoral College.

Much Leeway

This would allow much leeway. The greatest disproportion in the Electoral College is between Alaska, which has three electoral votes, and New York, which has 45. This amounts to one electoral vote for 76,000 citizens of Alaska and one for 375,000 citizens of New York.

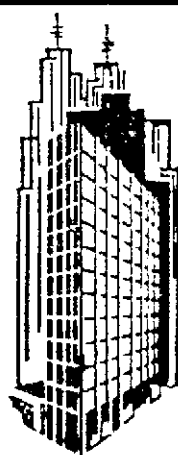

Will the Supreme Court go for this standard of reasonableness? The decision next term may tell.

Lesson in English

BY W. L. GORDON

Words Often Misused: Do not say, "Each of the plates was identical in color." Say, "The plates were identical in color." The "each" makes the idea singular, whereas "identical" requires two things to be compared.
Often Mispronounced: Imprima-

tur (sanction). Pronounce imprima-tur, principal accent on third syllable.

Often Misspelled: Pincers (the tool); not "pinchers."

Synonyms: Innocent, guileless, guiltless, blameless, sinless, righteous, upright, pure, exemplary.

Word Study: "Use a word three times and it is yours." Let us increase our vocabulary by mastering one word each day.

Today's Word: Suffuse; to overspread, as with vapor, fluid or color. "Her face was suffused with a glow of embarrassment."

Saving Souls Top Priority For Christians

Pastor Says Our Work Is to Carry
Gospel to World

"The Christian's top priority project is, simply put, the harvesting of souls for Jesus Christ and heaven," the Rev. H. E. Simon told his congregation at Faith Lutheran Church Sunday. Unless man is converted and led to believe in Jesus Christ as savior from sin, he cannot get to heaven, the pastor said. But God loves this man who needs to be born again so much that He sent His Son "to seek and to save that which was lost," he went on. "In order to be saved, to be born again, to see the Kingdom of God, you must look at Jesus Christ and see in Him the very Lamb of God, who sacrificed Himself body and blood on the altar of the cross for your sins," he said.

Rev. Simon

For Whole World

"But Jesus Christ did it for the whole world," he continued. "And so the next question is what arrangement does God have to get this saving Word out?"

The answer, he said, is in God's command to preach the Gospel to every creature. "It's a simple, smugness-shattering command, isn't it? You bring the Gospel of Christ to the world so that its people can be born again, God says — says it to you and me. Indeed, He bids us look to the Lamb, but then He commands that we look from the Lamb to the Lost for whom the Lamb sacrificed Himself. Jesus died to save the lost: your greatest, your top priority project and mine is to bring His Salvation to them."

"Can you imagine being lost, dying, and some loving soul takes you by the hand and leads you to safety — and then you come back, and see others lost, dying, and you turn your back on them, or refuse to do enough to help them to find safety?" Pastor Simon asked. "Unthinkable, you say? It should be. But when it comes to the lost souls of the world, almost every Christian is guilty of that sort of thing, and some Christians terribly guilty of it."

Take These Means

God gives of the means of His grace, he said, and "Christians are to take these means to the world. If we don't do it, it won't be done, and souls will be damned."

"We ourselves do not appreciate the power that God the Holy Spirit wants to unleash in us and through us," he said. "But that's part of the problem. He cannot well unleash it through us unless first it gets free play inside us."

"There is a connection between our really taking the Gospel into all the world, starting right here at home, and our taking the Gospel into ourselves in fuller, richer measure," he declared. "You can hardly give others what you haven't much of yourself."

My Total Owner

"It all begins with this. I belong to Jesus. My life does, my time does, my talents do, my money does — Christ is my total owner," Pastor Simon said. "And, of course, if we give our very selves to Jesus, His whole business becomes our business, and we get interested in it."

Strive to become better harvesters, here in our own community and our own congregation, he urged, and strive to help our sons and daughters to see the glory of full time work for Christ.

"Jesus Christ is in the middle of every honest Christian's job," he added. "It's Him we serve."

Greek Orthodox Wedding Rite Carries On Ancient Customs

Miss Jimos Bride of Donald Dake

Miss Sandra Lynne Jimos became the bride of Donald Dake at 4 p.m. Sunday at All Saints Episcopal Church. The Greek Orthodox ceremony which united the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Andrew C. Jimos, 611 E. Pacific St., and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Dake, Oshkosh, was performed by the Rev. Theo Anastas, of Holy Trinity Greek Orthodox Church, Fond du Lac. The Rev. Peter Murtos of St. Spyridon Greek Orthodox Church, Sheboygan, assisted in the rite.

The Greek Orthodox ceremony traces its history back to the wedding at Cana and has remained unchanged since the Fourth century when it was declared that no marriage was recognized unless blessed by the church. Most of the service is read in Greek.

A Greek Orthodox nuptial rite consists of two separate services. The first is the betrothal ceremony. The rings are carried to the altar on a pillow and are blessed by the priest, who then touches the rings to the couple's foreheads and repeats a prayer three times, reversing the or-petitions, prayers, the crown- ing, Bible readings, giving of wine from a common cup, cir- cling of the table and benedic- tion.

Crowns Interchanged

The crowns, also carried to the altar on a pillow, are usu- ally made of artificial orange blossoms. They are united by a white satin ribbon and placed on the heads of the couple by the priest. The best man in- terchanges the crowns as he did the rings, as a symbol of the couple's union. The congrega- tion then joins in The Lord's Prayer.

After the priest blesses the common cup, a gold chalice, it is filled with unconcentrated wine and the bride and bride- groom drink from it, as a sym- bol of their sharing the cup of life.

A custom which has prevailed in the Orthodox Church is the circling of the table, symboliz- ing the happiness of those pres- ent for the newly married cou- ple. The table is circled three times by the two priests, the bride and bridegroom, all hold- ing hands. It is a joyous part of the ceremony, almost a dance.

Prayer of Benediction

As the crowns are removed from the couple's heads the priest prays, "O God, bless also these thy servants who have been joined together by Thy providence in the fellowship of marriage. Take their crowns into Thy Kingdom and keep them unstained." The priest says a final prayer of good wishes for the newlyweds.

During a Greek Orthodox wedding ceremony the bride and bridegroom, maid of honor and best man hold lighted candles. Above, the Rev. Theo Anastas gives a candle to Miss Sandra Jimos who became the bride of Donald Dake at 4 p.m. Sun- day. The ceremony was held at All Saints Episcopal Church. Below, the crowns placed upon the heads of the couple are interchanged during the ceremony by the best man, as a symbol of the union in marriage.

The Rev. Theo Anastas of Holy Trinity Greek Orthodox Church, Fond du Lac, offers the common cup to Donald Dake and Miss Sandra Jimos. This part of the ritual symbolizes the couple's sharing of the cup of life. Below, Father Anastas, Donald Dake, Miss Jimos and the Rev. Peter Murtos hold hands as they walk around the table three times. This ceremony is an expression of joy at the couple's happiness and is similar to a dance. The Greek Orthodox wedding ritual has remained unchanged for many centuries.

Miss Jimos was attended by Miss Kathleen Seelins, Sheboygan, and Miss Judith Fasbender, Post-Washington. Phillip Varnick, Sheboygan, was best man and William Manske, Oshkosh, was groomsmen.

Bernard and Michael Dunn, nephews of the bride, served as crown and ring bearers. Flower girls were Faye Weyer, a cousin of the bride, and Deborah Dunn and Elizabeth Gamsky, nieces of the bride.

Ushering duties were per- formed by Lee Kalbus, Dennis Panetti, Neal Gamsky and Bernard Dunn.

A reception and buffet supper were held at Club Terrace.

After a wedding trip to the western states, the World's Fair in Seattle and Canada, the new- lyweds will reside in Kaukauna.

The new Mrs. Dake is a gradu- ate of Appleton High School and Wisconsin State College, Oshkosh. She was a member of Kappa Gamma sorority. She is a teacher at Park Elementary School, Kaukauna. Her husband was graduated from Oshkosh High School and Wisconsin State College, Oshkosh, where he was affiliated with Phi Kappa Kappa fraternity. He will teach at Kaukauna High School in the fall.

Your Problems

Small Talk of Doubtful Value When Becoming Americanized

BY ANN LANDERS

DEAR ANN LANDERS: I'm a girl 22 and not yet a citizen. I came here from central Europe and I want so much to be like Americans.

I am a hair dresser and the girls in the shop have been wonderfully helpful. They all have nice boy friends (one already has a fine husband) and they seem so happy. I want to be popular with boys, but I don't know how to do it.

The girls tell me I should not be so serious in my conversation. They say American boys "Deuce" and perhaps to many others. She wrote about her alcoholic husband and said she became a problem. Her question was "What can I do for such a man?"

The important question is not "What can she do for him—but what can she do for herself?"

I was desperate after several years of marriage to a problem drinker. He wasn't ready for AA or any other kind of help. I begged, pleaded, threatened, prayed. Nothing I said or did made the slightest impression.

A friend sent me the Al-Anon Family Group book. It was the start of a new life for me. I practically memorized it.

Soon after, an Al-Anon Chapter opened in this city. I became active. Al-Anon has given me patience I never thought possible. Fear no longer cripples me. I remember how I used to go to pieces every time my husband walked out the door. Now my husband has recognized his problem and I'm sure my understanding and change of attitude helped.

He's been dry for two years and is well on the way to recovery. Anyone can do what I did.

DEAR ANN LANDERS: Please tell me what to do about my mother. She is 68 years old, in good health, bright as a dollar and has a lovely disposition.

When Dad died two years ago both my brother and I begged her to live with us, but she refused. She has a small income from Dad's insurance. I've tried to slip her money, but she won't take it. My brother has sent her checks, but she doesn't cash them. She loves children and babysits almost every night. Everyone adores her and she isn't able to accommodate half of the people who want her.

We'd love for her to take life easy and not do one single thing. She refuses to go on a vacation, although we have offered to send her anywhere. What can we do with a woman like this?—H.J.

Dear H. J.: Just love her and stop trying to turn this remarkable woman into a useless nothing. She's happy this way and it would be a crime to rob her of the independence she loves.

Invite her for meals, buy her a dress or a coat now and then, take her to a movie or to the theatre. If she'll go, but don't try to change her way of living. She sounds too good to be true.

Nina Ricci Star Blazing In Field of Paris Fashion

BY PAUL GHALI
Post-Crescent News Service

In the crowded firmament of Paris haute-couture, the star of Nina Ricci shines today close to those of some of Paris' greatest couture houses like Balenciaga and Dior.

The rise in the difficult field of Paris elegance of Italian-born Nina Ricci, daughter of a shoemaker from Turin, is a saga of tenacity and courage, mixed with the touch of luck that makes for great careers.

It all started in 1932 when Nina who had been designing for other couturiers, decided to have her own, if small, couture house.

She installed herself in the Rue des Capucines, a short distance from the swanky Place Vendôme and the Ritz Hotel. She is still there today but her prosperous house has now expanded to several adjoining buildings.

Nina Ricci first catered for the Paris and provincial "bourgeoisie," a class that has money but doesn't like to spend it. Her dresses, well made, convenient but slightly on the conventional side, sold cheaper than those of Molyneux and Schiaparelli at the time.

It is quite possible that Nina Ricci would have remained a secondary couture house if it had not been for the petite blond and sparkling-eyed Italian who founded it.

In the years immediately after the Second World War, Nina had two genial inventions that literally catapulted her house into the big international world of couture.

Perfume and Friends

Nina had a wonderful sense for romantic and sensual perfumes and also many friends in the Paris artistic world to help her launch them.

In 1945, she launched her first called "Coeur Joli." Talented Christian Berard, the favorite painter of Paris cosmopolitan socialites took charge of the publicity angle and it was a formidable success.

In less than six months, Nina Ricci, the dressmaker, was cashing in on Nina Ricci, the perfume maker.

Ricci next "discovered" a top designer for her couture house in the person of blond, freckled Belgian-born Jules Francois Crahay (pronounced cry).

It was not really a discovery. Crahay, whose mother was a dressmaker in her native town of Liege, had been a war prisoner from 1940 to 1945. In his long days of idleness, he designed costumes for the camp theatrical team.

One day, he had the bright idea to write to Nina, asking her for old dresses and costumes that he could alter and adapt for his primitive theatrical troupe. Nina promptly answered, filling Crahay's heart with gratitude.

When in 1954 Nina found herself in need of an ace designer to boost her dormant house, she naturally thought of Crahay and decided to give him a break.

The decision to hire him as the house designer was not Nina's alone. It was also her son's, Robert, 53-year-old gray-haired and elegant, is his mother's best friend, closest adviser, business manager and today the president of the House of Ricci.

Jules Crahay and Nina Ricci

Exclusive Designer

When Crahay was first hired in 1954, he was asked to design 20 models out of the Ricci collection, which comprised 125 exclusives. The next year, he produced 30 models and the third year, 60. In 1959 he became the exclusive and ace designer of the House.

His was an immediate and tremendous success. His clothes were gay and young. His matching colors were new, bright and tastefully assembled. He had plunging décolletés and daring necklines that made news.

Nina felt that she had tumbled on the "oiseau rare" and that she could safely retire.

Well over 70, she now lives in her big apartment on the Avenue Marceau in the Etiole part of Paris. Its walls are covered with souvenirs of the past and pictures that famous painters made of her when she was young.

She virtually never comes back to the couture house but every week her son visits her and reports on the family affairs.

Since Nina retired, her house is run exclusively by her son.

Has Able Help

He is assisted by a brain trust of three: Madame George Antoine is in charge of organizing the twice yearly showings. Russian-born Valdimir de Kousmine deals with the business side, perfumes and boutique. The artistic designing and the couture itself is entrusted to Crahay.

Crahay's direct assistant is Ruben Torres, a Texas-born American of Mexican origin.

Crahay's headquarters are a three large rooms on the top floor of the Ricci building. They have the untidiness of an artist's studio and are packed with pieces of material, torn designs and unfinished models for the coming collection.

With him work three assistants who sit in the same room at little square black tables that look like students' desks.

In these unpretentious rooms are born some of the most popular dresses of the Paris couture today — dresses that are gradually competing with Chanel's simple little suits in chic, wearability and originality.

Few apprentices, French or foreign, are accepted by Crahay to train with him in the difficult art of dress designing.

Those who are accepted work on the same floor and under the

Bringing Up Baby

HINTS COLLECTED BY MRS. DAN GERBER, MOTHER OF 5

A backyard can be a real blessing in the summertime. If you have one, why not move baby's playpen outdoors these fine June days? With all of nature's sights to see, your cherub will probably be content to stay put for reasonable periods of time.

- If you park the pen in a shaded, sheltered spot, baby won't get burned or chilled. A shirt will protect baby, should breezes blow.
- This is a good time for you to catch up on "lap jobs," such as mending, reading or knitting, while you sit outdoors with baby.

June or January, cereal is usually on baby's daily mealtime agenda. Gerber Cereals are especially popular with babies because the flavors are ever so delicate... the texture ever so smooth to the tongue. As for baby's nutritional well-being, all 5 are enriched with iron*, important B-vitamins and calcium. Rotate Rice Cereal, Barley, Oatmeal, Mixed Cereal and High Protein Cereal for continued meal appeal.

*6 tablespoons of any Gerber Cereal provide baby with over 100% of the Recommended Daily Dietary Allowance for iron.

Of routine interest, Regular mealtime and sandman hours are important the year around. (Somehow routines have a way of getting relaxed in summer with haphazard bedtimes and meals.) It's wise to remember that a well-regulated (but not strictly tied-down) baby is usually a happy, healthy baby.

Sunny summer menu suggestion. Gerber Strained Egg Yolks have a sunny color, a delicate, fresh-egg flavor and a custard-like texture. Nutritionally, they're good sources of iron, vitamin A, vitamin B-12, protein. Gerber Baby Foods, Fremont, Michigan.

Q. Some books say to spread gravel on the bottom of a bird's cage. Others say to put the gravel in a dish because spreading it will cause the bird to have sore feet. Which is right? Debbie Johnson, Logan, Ohio.

A. Both are correct. Putting gravel in a dish is fine, but some of it is bound to be scattered from the dish to the floor. Too much gravel on the cage floor might cause discomfort although the bird spends very little time at the bottom of his cage. The gravel is needed by the bird to properly digest his food. Some bird foods contain a little gravel. Putting a little gravel in a separate dish won't hurt the bird. Sprinkling the small quantity he needs for his diet on the floor won't hurt him either and he'll have the fun of scratching for it as his ancestors did in the wild. Agreement Hurts Play

There seems to be a labor-saving agreement in effect among most bridge players. Only one person, the declarer, is allowed to think. Dummy's job is to make coffee or forage for ice cubes; the two defenders play their cards harmlessly and wait until they have a real job.

West opened the deuce of hearts, and East's king forced out the ace. South led the king of spades, and West took the ace.

Now West cast a hopeless glance at the dummy and despairingly led a diamond. This lead failed to terrify declarer. He won the diamond in dummy, drew trumps, and ran the rest of the diamonds to discard two clubs. He eventually gave up a club trick, making the contract with an overtrick.

The result would have been different if West had thought just a little. He would have concluded that his partner held the ace of clubs.

Original Pass
The clue was South's original pass, which limited the strength of the South hand. The first trick showed that South had the ace-queen of hearts, and South's lead of the king of spades at the second trick showed that he had the king-queen of spades. If South also held the ace of clubs he would have opened the bidding instead of passing.

West can play to get three club tricks if he knows that his partner has the ace. After taking the ace of spades, West lead the jack of clubs.

If dummy plays low, the ace king and king take the next jump to two spades is proper. Two tricks. If dummy covers with only if you have passed to begin the queen, East takes the ace of with, thus limiting the strength of clubs and returns a club through of your hand.

AMA Involvement in Politics Far From Prime Medical Goal

Threat of Socialized Medicine Led Doctors to Controversial Area

BY ARTHUR J. SNIDER
Chicago Daily News Service

CHICAGO — A "now hear-this" type announcement broke into the velvetly background music at the American Medical Association headquarters:

"Dr. Edward Annis will be on television Sunday at 5 p.m. to discuss the King-Anderson bill. Be sure and tell your friends."

Involvement of the AMA in the art of political persuasion — be the target its own 700 employees, 540 federal lawmakers or 185 mil-medicine or we can fight to protect the free practice of medicine."

Now that it has been drawn into the political arena, the AMA has proved to be a formidable foe, as President Kennedy and labor leaders can testify.

It is big and well heeled. It draws on a foundation of 186,000 members and 2,000 local societies.

High Income

It has an annual income of almost $18 million, more than half of which comes from advertising, chiefly of drugs, in the influential journal of the AMA, the most widely circulated medical journal in the world.

Dues provide more than $3,500,000, and such miscellaneous items as an exhibit space at its two yearly conventions provides another $700,000.

Subscriptions to the weekly AMA Journal and its 10 monthly specialty journals provides $2,500,000. It has about $12 million in assets, mostly in stocks and property. It spends about 1 percent of its $17,500,000 budget on lobbying, which puts it among the top groups in Washington.

Since the AMA is non-profit, it spends about all of its budget, a good share of it on magazine, printing and salaries.

The operation is directed from the eight-story, $4,500,000 headquarters building in Chicago, site of the AMA command post for 60 years.

Unknown Building

For decades, sightseeing bus drivers referred to the building as the "headquarters of Dr. Morris Fishbein." Even today, many Chicagoans do not know it as the AMA headquarters and the nerve center of American medicine.

"Fishbein the one-time $30,000-a-year editor of the AMA Journal, became organized medicine's first widely recognized spokesman. It occurred largely by default.

Other physicians, publicity shy by nature, declined to answer reporters' queries, refused to have their names published and were reluctant to engage in controversy. Fishbein filled the void.

For 37 years he was Mr. AMA. Few laymen knew there was an AMA president.

When medicine entered the political arena, it was Fishbein who wrote the editorial and took to the rostrum against the threat of government medicine.

Fishbein Sacrificed

As criticism of the AMA mounted, Fishbein was sacrificed. A resolution was passed by the house of delegates ordering him to limit his speeches to non-controversial topics, which was like ordering Salvador Dali to shun surrealism.

Fishbein has been away from the AMA for 13 years, but his name is still considered by many, including President Kennedy, as synonymous with the AMA.

Today, the AMA's less colorful voice is diffused. The most influential behind-scenes figure is Dr. Francis J. L. (Bing) Blasigame, 55, the executive vice president whose term has just been renewed for five years.

Chief public spokesman is Dr. Leonard Larson of Bismarck, N. D., who next week, at the 11th annual convention here, will be succeeded as resident by Dr. George Fister of Ogden, Utah.

The fleeting, one-year reign of Church Women Tell Summer Event Plans

The Women of the First English Lutheran Church heard Dr. Henry Hoesman, director of Evangelism, Minneapolis, Minn., when they met at 2 p.m. June 12. The speaker's topic was his work with the Parish Mission Builders, a group of young college men and women whom he trains to make home calls on members of the congregation and prospective members.

The women discussed plans for a picnic to be held at 6 p.m. July 10 at City Park. This will be in conjunction with the July meeting. Women of the congregation and guests have been invited.

A bus trip to the Bethany Home for the Aged will take the place of the Aug. 14 general meeting. The women will also visit Shadow Lake Bible Camp at Waupaca. Reservations may be made with Mrs. Roy Raess, secretary.

an AMA president makes it difficult for the public to identify with a leader, as in the case of many labor unions where presidential terms are renewable and not infrequently for a lifetime.

Continuing Image

Some have suggested that the AMA elect a permanent, salaried president who would give up his private practice and rule from national headquarters in order to provide a continuing image.

That such an image may be emerging in Dr. Edward Annis, the Miami surgeon, is looked upon with favor by those who remember the colorful Fishbein era.

It was Annis who replied to President Kennedy in the dramatic speech to 18,000 empty seats in Madison Square Garden last month. A skilled debater and a veteran of political campaigns in Florida, he has been medicine's spokesman on critical occasions.

The Fathers of Glenwood Acres neighborhood enjoyed their own Fathers Day treat at their fifth annual breakfast Sunday. The backyard event took place at the Clyde Stephenson home, 1125 E. Melrose Ave. Chairmen were Lawrence Speel, Arthur Tack and Max Freeman. Above, having breakfast, are Lawrence Speel, John Cannon, Dr. George French, Clyde Stephenson and John Toppins.

Conservatives In Canada Get Sharp Setback

the Conservatives had in populous Quebec and Ontario provinces.

The biggest surprise in the Conservative setback was the strength of the minor New Democratic and Social Credit parties. The Social Credit party didn't have a single seat in the last Parliament. The New Democratic party previously had eight seats.

The swing away from the Conservatives was even more pronounced in the popular vote. Out of more than 7 million votes counted today, the Conservatives received 37.4 per cent and the Liberals 36.7. In the total 1958 vote, the percentages were 53 for the Conservatives and 33 for the Liberals.

This was the vote count from 45,907 of the 48,623 districts:

Conservatives 2,701,087, Liberals 2,648,912, New Democrats 1,001,784 (13.9 per cent), Social Credit 845,979 (11.7 per cent), others 28,810.

The prime minister won re-election easily to the House from Prince Albert, which he has represented since 1953. Four members of his Cabinet fell—Minister Jacques Flynn, Postmaster General William Hamilton, Secretary of State Noel Dorion and Works Minister David J. Walker.

How long a new Conservative government will be able to carry on depends largely on whether they can get the cooperation of either the Social Credit party or the New Democrats.

Diefenbaker Thompson

Social Credit leader Robert Thompson made clear his party would cooperate only with a house-keeping administration to set the stage for a new election. The party's deputy leader, Real Caouette, said there was no question of forming a coalition with another party.

The socialistic New Democratic party for the moment could say nothing. Its leader, T. C. Douglas, had lost his bid for a Commons seat from Regina and the party was leaderless. Douglas refused to indicate whether Diefenbaker will get New Democratic support.

Like 1957 Situation

The situation in Parliament will be similar to that in 1957 when Diefenbaker took over as head of a minority government after ending 22 years of Liberal rule. The Conservatives carried on for nine months, then won a landslide victory in a new election.

There was no clearcut reason for the huge Conservative losses except perhaps a general lack of confidence. Liberal leader Lester B. Pearson repeatedly accused the government of indecisiveness and charged that it had undermined confidence at home and Canada's prestige abroad.

There also was considerable grumbling about the unemployment and the government's devaluation of the Canadian dollar. The "Diefendollar," as it is sometimes called, is now valued at 92.5 U.S. cents.

community—the entering of a new period of creative activity.

Rusk, calling the alliance's foundation solid, said his European talks will center on "what is next to be done—the new steps."

Rusk had a 90-minute conference on Berlin Monday with Anatoly Dobrynin, the Soviet ambassador. It was their fifth such meeting since Dobrynin arrived in the United States in March and no progress has been reported so far.

This is another point of difference between Paris and Washington. De Gaulle feels these talks are a waste of time. The Kennedy administration believes it is important to keep the talks going, and the Kremlin seems to agree.

Whether Rusk will get to see the austere, unbending De Gaulle was not known for certain in Washington. It is a matter of protocol, a decision for the French president to make and to announce.

Rusk, U.S. officials said, has no fixed agenda for discussions in any of the capitals. The issues, however, are well known, and Rusk is ready to talk on any or all of them.

but normally not as precisely as the radio guidance system.

"It appeared that today the auto pilot performed almost as precisely as the guidance would have," Gray said.

Hurricane-watching was Tiros V's main assignment. But Meteorologists hope pictures taken by its cloud-cover cameras also will provide vital data on storms, fog and ice break-up near the Arctic Circle; Pacific Ocean Typhoons and other weather phenomena around the world.

The launching was timed so the 286-pound satellite's two television cameras would be aimed at the hurricane-breeding grounds of the Caribbean and Atlantic during late August and all of September, normally the peak period for tropical storms.

The hurricane season opened officially Friday. If the initial storm of the season, Alma, develops in the first 10 days of Tiros V's flight, the satellite would be able to photograph it.

Limited in Scope

After this period, the satellite's alignment was to be such that for 38 days the camera would be able to photograph cloud cover only over areas south of the equator. Beginning in mid-August the vehicle's intended path would permit camera coverage in the Northern Hemisphere for 35-40 days.

The Weather Bureau planned to relay hurricane pictures snapped by the satellite as swiftly as possible to warning centers in Miami, Fla.; New Orleans, La., and San Juan, Puerto Rico, for help in plotting direction and intensity of the storms.

NASA emphasized hurricane detection is not Tiros V's main mission, that it is basically a research vehicle, like the four previous satellites in the program and two more scheduled to follow. The Tiros satellites are laying the groundwork for an operational space weather surveillance system, Project Nimbus, scheduled to begin launchings next year.

"If a hurricane develops during the time Tiros V is in a position to take this picture," an official explained, "we will assemble all the pictures taken in the area in the days immediately before. These may provide clues to what type conditions must exist for a hurricane to form."

"We will try to follow the course of the storm with the satellite cameras, and hope that the satellite can actually be the first to detect a hurricane, as Tiros III did last year."

the people of Wisconsin are engaged and interested.

Printed on heavier stock, the Sunday magazine will be pleasing to the touch and eye, and more vividly reproduce full color editorial and advertising material.

Briefly, "View" will include: A weekly full-color photographic page on a subject of particular interest to people throughout northeastern Wisconsin. The first issue will present a colorful scene from the Black Creek Centennial observance.

The magazine will contain a weekly feature on a local area personality in word and picture.

Teen-age activities and interests will be contained on a teen-age page which will include a review of latest pop recordings.

An automobile page will include stories and pictures for car enthusiasts, from the normal everyday driver to sports car fans and antique fanciers.

More Outdoor News

Supplementing the popular outdoor page, which still will be a major part of the regular Sunday paper, "View" will take the reader to the great outdoors with studies of, and advice about, camping, nature study, outdoor cooking and other aspects of outdoor life.

There will be a weekly movie feature accompanied with full-color art.

Persons who participate in, or enjoy attending, the legitimate theater will find greatly expanded coverage of music and drama on the theater page. During the summer, there will be detailed reviews of presentations by Attie Theater, Peninsula Players, Green Ram Theater, Riverside Players and others. Classical records and recent literary works will come in for considerable attention.

Bridge hounds will find expert instruction aimed to improve their play, while others will have their vocabularies challenged by a weekly cross-word puzzle.

Pages for Hobbyist

In addition to a two-page picture story of some interesting feature of Wisconsin living, "View" also will carry a hobby page focused on photography, stamp collections, your pets, gardening and other interests.

Another page will undoubtedly find its way right into the kitchen. It will highlight a variety of foods, menus and recipes.

John Torinus, until recently editor of the Green Bay Press Gazette, now editorial vice-president of the Post-Crescent, is in charge of the new publication.

The panel said that if the Legislature did not reapportion, it would name a special master and tackle the job on its own. Atty. Gen. John W. Reynolds instituted the federal court action when the 1961 session failed to realign congressional and legislative districts.

Council Offers Plan

Bills embodying the Legislative Council committee's plan were submitted Monday to the Assembly Rules Committee and that group voted to introduce them.

Leonard said the biggest hurdle in drafting a reapportionment proposal was how many Assembly seats should be shifted to areas with increased population. "Once that matter is settled," he said, "the Senate and congressional districting sort of falls into line."

Leonard's plan would have added two Assembly seats in Milwaukee County, two in Waukesha County and one in Outagamie County. Pommerening's proposal called for holding Milwaukee County's representation at 24 seats while adding two in Waukesha County, one in Outagamie, one in Walworth and one in Kenosha. The council committee's plan recommended two additional Assembly districts in both Milwaukee and Waukesha counties.

Gen. Clay Receives Brotherhood Award At Testimonial Dinner

NEW YORK (AP)—The National Conference of Christians and Jews has presented its brotherhood award to Gen. Lucius D. Clay "for distinguished service in the field of human relations."

Clay, who recently served as President Kennedy's personal representative in Berlin, was honored Monday night at a $100-a-plate dinner in the Waldorf-Astoria Hotel.

Former President Dwight D. Eisenhower was among the industrial, professional and civic leaders attending the dinner.

We recognize that experience will make forthcoming issues increasingly better, but we are confident our readers are going to enjoy "View" right from the start. We hope they will be as anxious to see our new baby, Sunday, July 1, as we are."

Taxpayers Group Requests Study of Finance Director

Expenditures Survey Consents To Prepare Free Analysis in July

The Appleton Taxpayers Association has requested the city to have the Public Expenditures Survey of Wisconsin make a survey of the proposed department and director of finance.

In a letter signed by Richard Allen, vice president, the association suggests a review of the city's financial reporting and organization for financial administration. It also suggests a feasibility study on centralized municipal accounting.

Ald. George Buckley has proposed a separate department of finance under the administration of a director of finance, because of the city's growth and mounting financial problems. His resolution will be discussed at a council committee-of-the-whole Wednesday night.

Supported Plan
City Clerk Elden Broehm supported Buckley's resolution. In a letter to the finance committee, Broehm said the work load in his office has increased tremendously as the city has grown. He said he favors the new department because of the increased need for more frequent budget analysis, purchase order control, auditing of bills and the over-all work load for more complex bookkeeping records.

The Appleton League of Women Voters also officially endorsed a department and director of finance several years ago during its study of the city's government. The taxpayers group says the expenditures survey has consented to make the analysis and feasibility study for Appleton free of charge in July.

Study Objectives
The objectives would be to determine the financial reporting needs of the city, the most effective organization, cost of operating the department and what benefits it would be to the city.

Financial reporting is not an end in itself, the association points out, but is a useful device that provides for informed decisions and controls.

Creation of a separate general accounting office is no guarantee of better reporting or more efficient and economical operations, the association said. Conversely, it is possible economies could be achieved and comprehensive reporting provided through centralized accounting, it says.

Planning Important
Establishment of a new department might add to the cost of the city government, it says, and consequently should be thoroughly planned. If plans are not well formed the new department might cause confusion and result in the temporary weakening rather than strengthening of controls, the association says.

The letter gives credit to the finance committee and city clerk for having made improvements in budgetary reports and controls.

Cheating Disqualifies Pharmacy Applicants

ATLANTA (AP)—The Georgia Pharmacy Board has disqualified 20 applicants for pharmaceutical licenses because of cheating on examinations.

The board said the 20 admitted they used information obtained in advance of their tests last week. One of the group, the board reported Monday, said he sold partial copies of the examination to some of the others after buying the information for $550 from an Atlanta area druggist.

Laundromat Money Taken in Little Chute

LITTLE CHUTE — Police are investigating the theft of between $21 and $22 from the coin change box of a laundromat on E. Main Street.

Renk Voices Favor Of General Sales Tax, Exemptions

Farm Bureau Hears Plan for More Spending on Education

DALE — Wilbur Renk, Republican gubernatorial candidate, proposed the abolishment of the present three per cent selective sales tax and adoption of a two per cent general sales tax before the Outagamie County Farm Bureau in the Community Hall here Monday night.

Renk also favors getting rid of the personal property tax and a more stringent program of government economy.

In addition to imposing a new two per cent sales tax, which he said would eliminate the personal property tax, Renk also said he favors a $500 per family member, state income tax exemption. This would reduce the tax load on the large, low income family, he said.

More For Education
By tightening the budget, more money could be spent by the state for education, he said. Renk proposed a revamping of the present educational system which would allow more students to receive a higher education. This would be done by having junior colleges take the overflow from the state colleges and universities. He also stressed more vocational schools.

Renk advocated more vocational schools and on the job training for students not able to attend college or even high school. The Wisconsin farmer needs in-

Query Mileage System Inaction

Finance Committee Proposal Has Sat For Nine Months

Appleton's finance committee men are wondering why the personnel committee "is sitting on" a new mileage allowance system for city workers proposed by the finance unit about nine months ago.

The question arose Monday night when the finance committee refused to approve a $2.50 a day allowance for the assessor's field men, as suggested by the personnel committee.

Finance committeemen said the allowance is about double the $25 a month the field men received in the past.

The committeemen said they would question on the council floor a personnel unit proposal to have monthly car allowances paid in full even while a worker is on vacation, sick leave or emergency leave. The proposal was not before the committee for action Monday night. Workers who get allowances now are paid only for the days they are on the job.

Supposed To Save $100
The mileage allowance system proposed by the finance committee was given to the personnel committee when it was formed last November. Called a 10-4 system, it would have paid 10 cents a mile for the first 500 miles and four cents for every mile over 500.

According to a tabulation of miles driven and allowances paid in 1960, that system was supposed to save the city about $100 a month in car expenses.

The committee submitted alternate combination systems ranging from 8.5 to 10-7 cents for 500 and more miles, as well as the straight 8, 9 and 10 cents a mile.

Committeemen wanted to standardize mileage allowances. Monthly reports showed that the per mile rate workers were receiving ranged from 7.8 to 28.9 cents, depending on the number of miles driven and the amount of allowance each was receiving.

20 Year Existence Iron Works Fire Unit Observes Anniversary

The 20th year of organization of the Valley Iron Works Corp. fire brigade was celebrated Monday night at the annual picnic and dinner meeting at Stroeb's Island.

The VFW Fire Brigade was organized during World War II along with others in the area and is one of the last remaining active groups.

The function of the fire brigade is to be on the watch for conditions and other features of plant housekeeping which lead to fires and to train members of the brigade in the elements of fire fighting so they can assist the members of the regular fire department should a serious fire occur on the plant premises.

210 Meetings
The Valley Iron brigade has held 210 meetings since its organization. It is led by Brigade Chief Paul Muldoon and by assistant brigade chief Ed Collins.

Guest speaker for the evening was Arno H. Wangemann, plant fire chief, Plastics Engineering Co. Sheboygan. In addition, Wangemann is an instructor teaching volunteer fire departments under state jurisdiction.

Wangemann said that most plants are today using new materials which are unfamiliar and which provide new hazards. This means that fires are more likely and plants have to be more watchful than ever before, he said.

The fire instructor said there was a five-point program for safe-

Menominee Unit Developing Land For New Homes

Approximately 6,000 acres of the 235,000 acres in Menominee County are being developed by Menominee Enterprises, Inc., Neopit, a recently formed corporation handling business affairs for the Menominee Indians.

The area will be known as "Menominee Forest Lakes Vacationland Homes." Waterfront lots on several lakes and along the Wolf River are plotted and under development for approved home building, under a forty year lease plan.

Future development plans include a golf course, recreation buildings, playground areas and a shopping area and motel near Keshena.

7 Streets Back on Paving Schedule

Appleton Board Can't Get U. S. Funds for Improving Ballard Road This Summer

Residents on four Appleton streets and portions of three others will have their streets paved this year after all, and paving of Ballard road will be deferred until 1963, the street and sanitation committee decided Monday.

The streets were deleted from the 1962 paving schedule because of a shortage of funds.

However, it was learned last week that the joint city, county and state project for Ballard Road from Wisconsin Avenue to U.S. 41 can't be done until 1963. Federal aid funds to help pay for the work won't become available until August or September. City, county and state officials decided to postpone the project until next year.

Streets Named
Consequently, the money that was budgeted by the city as its share of the cost will be used to pave some of the city streets that were dropped from this year's program.

Those streets are Elmwood,

Oakwood, Seminole, Seminole Court, the east half of Charles Street, Lindbergh from McDonald to Owaissa and Brookdale from Pershing to Longview.

Mohawk Drive, Cherokee Drive and the west half of Charles Street, also deleted from this year's program, will be given first preference next year, the committee decided. Funds budgeted for Ballard Road are not enough to allow paving those streets this year also.

The Ballard Road project was postponed because state, county and city engineers say concrete pavement should not be laid in September. There is not enough time for it to cure before winter arrives. Freezing weather will weaken the concrete and salt used for ice control will cause the surface to scale off.

Refused New Loan
The shortage of funds for this year's work developed when $133,700 had to be deducted from the total appropriation of $320,000. The amount deducted included $78,800 for Ballard Road and $75,100 to repay a bank loan taken last year when the paving account did not have enough money to do all the scheduled work.

This year aldermen refused to get another loan so all the work could be done, saying the account would be short every year if loans had to be repaid from the annual appropriations.

The contract for paving the streets that were put back in this year's program will be given to Leroy Geiger, low bidder for all of the work.

When the program had to be cut, he was asked if he would accept the smaller contract at the same unit prices he quoted for all the work. He consented on condition that, if Ballard road was not done this year, the funds appropriated for that job would be added to his contract to pave some of the deleted streets.

Tavernkeeper Sentenced to 45-Day Term

OSHKOSH — A Town of Oshkosh tavern operator was sentenced this morning to 45 days in the county jail for permitting minors to loiter in his tavern and an Oshkosh tavern owner was fined $100 for the same offense.

Harry O. Miller, 42, 1129 High Ave., Oshkosh, owner of the Lakeshore tavern on County Trunk A, admitted allowing eight Neenah youths to be in his tavern early the morning of June 4.

Jack Van Derhei, 916 Grove St., Oshkosh, owner of the Club Oasis on Harrison Street, pleaded no contest to the same charge.

County Judge James V. Sitter said he was giving Miller the more severe sentence because Miller was tending bar in the person that night while Van Derhei was not at his tavern when the offense took place.

One of the youths, Michael Versteegen, 19, was killed in an automobile accident later that night and two other youths were seriously injured.

Bloy Low Bid On Sidewalk Job Accepted

Kaukauna Board Recommends Buying $2,680 Leaf Loader

KAUKAUNA — The board of public works accepted the low bid on installation of approximately 25,000 square feet of sidewalk Monday night and voted to recommend two purchases to the purchasing committee.

Bloy Construction Co. was given the contract for installation of 25,000 square feet of 4-inch sidewalk at a cost of 32 cents per square foot and 2,500 square feet of 6-inch walk at a total cost of $9,900. The second lowest bid amounted to $9,200.

The board recommended purchase of a leaf loader from Paynter Equipment Co., Green Bay, at a cost of $2,680. Three bids were received. A purchase of a $635 tar kettle from the Hunter Tractor and Supply Co., Green Bay, was approved. Three bids were received.

Truck Bids
The city engineer reported he had not received bids on a one and one-half ton rubbish truck, for only one make of truck met specifications laid down by the board. Two local dealers were unable to bid, since their trucks did not qualify.

He was granted permission to advertise for a 2-ton truck, so that more dealers could meet specifications. Fred Reisel, Fifth Ward alderman, objected to changing specifications for the convenience of dealers unable to meet requirements, but agreed to the change after it was pointed out the city could well use the larger vehicle.

The engineer was instructed to ask separate bids on the truck and the truck box.

Two Attending Badger State

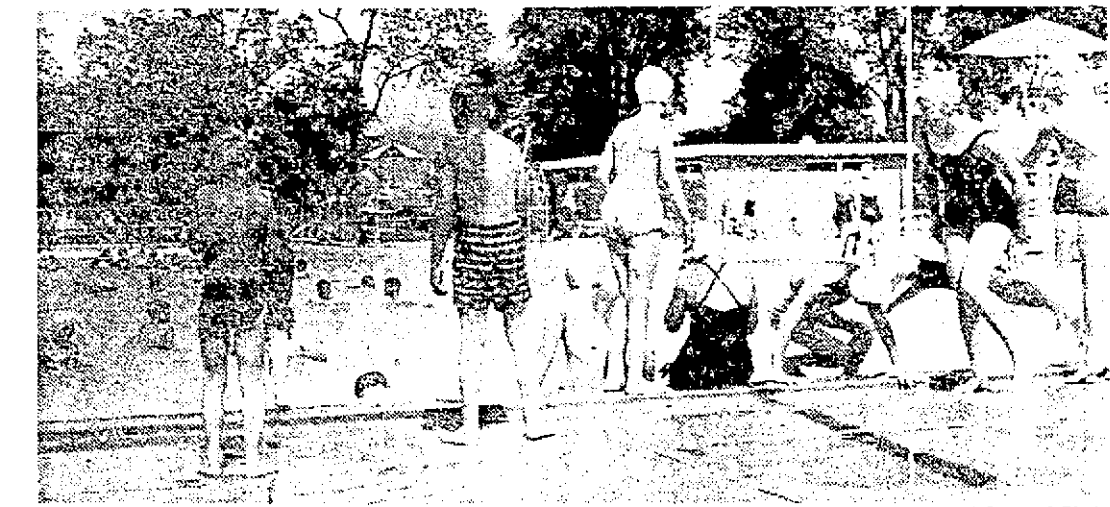

HORTONVILLE — Hortonville Union High School representatives attending Badger Boys State at Ripon College this week are John Mulroy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Mulroy, and Doug Meyer, son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd Meyer. The Hortonville Commercial Club and the local American Legion Post pay the enrollment fees for the two boys each year.

Four Youths Admit Damaging Erb Pool

Four Appleton youths have admitted they did damage to the swimming pool and locker rooms at Erb Park May 31, police have reported.

Warrants will be issued against the youths sometime today, Dist. Atty. Nick Schaefer said. The four youths told police they went to Erb Park, climbed the swimming pool fence and went into the girls' locker room, which was unlocked. The youths tossed baskets around the room and went back to the pool, where they dumped flower pots into the water.

Lt. Vilas Burmeister said he would ask juvenile court waivers on two of the youths for appearances in County Court, Branch 2. The two other youths will appear before Judge Raymond Dohr in County Court, Branch 3. Burmeister said.

All the fun of swimming returned with the summer as Mead pool on Appleton's south side opened for youngsters of all ages. The pool was opened last year for its first season.

Sen. and Mrs. Wiley were the breakfast guests of Mr. and Mrs. Len Pasek, 120 N. Green Bay Road, Appleton. Holding a discussion over the table are from left, Lyndon Allin, Madison, Sen. and Mrs. Wiley, Mr. and Mrs. Pasek. Allin, an employee of Wiley's in Milwaukee, drove the senator up for the visit.

Firemen of the Valley Iron Works plant Fire Brigade had its annual gathering at Stroeb's Island Haven. R. A. Peterson, extreme left, president of Valley Iron Works, perches a miniature fireman's hat on Arno Wangemann, who spoke before the group. Wangemann is plant fire chief of the Plastics Engineering Co., Sheboygan, and also chief of the State Industrial Volunteer Department. Also, from left, are Paul Stegert, original chief of the brigade; Ronald Keuhnl, Appleton fire chief, and Paul Muldoon, present chief of the Valley Fire Brigade.

Menasha Council Likely to Hold Action on Planned Athletic Field

MENASHA — Proposed council action on the Nathan Calder bonding resolution, the athletic field project probably will be laid over until the special citizens' committee reports a recommendation, aldermen seemed agreed Monday at the committee of the whole meeting.

City Atty. Richard J. Steffens gave each alderman a three-page letter outlining the legal steps necessary in furthering the project. First is that the council must state whether it intends to bond the city to pay for the stadium project. Two weeks ago, the initial resolution was introduced in council without action, which was to have been a special order of tonight's business.

The initial resolution has been published, Steffens noted, recommended a $200,000 bond issue. When the bonding resolution comes to a vote, it must be passed by nine of the 12 aldermen, or the bonding measure will fail.

Fulbright Aid Given to Menasha Man

MENASHA — Robert J. Loesch, 365 Naymut St., has been awarded a Fulbright scholarship for a year's study at the University of Madrid in Spain.

Loesch plans to study the history of art. He is one of 700 receiving grants for graduate study abroad for the 1962-63 school year. All candidates are selected by the Board of Foreign Scholarships, the members of which are appointed by the President.

American students are recommended for the Board's consideration by the campus Fulbright committees and by the Institute of International Education. The funds used for carrying out the program under provisions of the Fulbright Act are certain foreign currencies or credits owned by the Treasury of the United States.

Loesch, a Menasha High School graduate, received his bachelor's degree from the University of Wisconsin where he was named to Phi Beta Kappa. He also received his master's degree in art history at the University of Wisconsin and since 1959 has been studying for his doctorate at the University of Michigan where he has a teaching fellowship.

He has been specializing in Hispanic art and studied three months at the University of Mexico several years ago. During the summer of 1959 he served as acting director of the John Nelson Bergstrom Art Center and Museum.

Psychiatric Assistance Sought for Boy Who Threatened Parents

OSHKOSH — Psychiatric assistance was to be sought for a Winnebago County youth who threatened his father and mother with a shotgun Saturday night.

The youth took the gun from the attic and then went outside and ordered his parents into the house. Once inside he put the gun away and permitted his father to call police.

After police arrived he made another attempt to get the gun but was stopped by a policeman.

Car Misses Bumper, Breaks Store Window

NEENAH — A plate glass window in a building at 700 Main St. was broken when struck by a car driven by Mrs. James Rau, route 2, Neenah, at 12:30 p.m. Monday. She said she thought the parking bumpers in the parking lot would stop her car but her right front wheel went between the bumpers and the car struck the window. The building is owned by Peter J. Gehrke, route 1, Neenah.

'Progress USA' to be Theme For Annual JCC Boat Parade

NEENAH — "Progress USA" has been chosen by the Neenah-Menasha Junior Chamber of Commerce as the theme for this year's July 4 Venetian Boat Parade.

The boats will be decorated to show progress in various fields of endeavor from the days of Columbus to the Rocket Age.

Eighteen boat owners have consented to donate their crafts for use in the parade while about 10 organizations have offered to try their hand at boat decorating. The Jaycees provide up to $25 for each organization's boat decorating costs.

More donations of boats and organizations to decorate are being sought. Persons or groups interested should contact Stan Kraft at 2-7383 during the day or 2-2321 at night or Everett Foster at night at 5-2026. Foster is decorations chairman and Kraft is boat co-chairman.

This year's parade again will feature the 46-foot Neenah police boat and as a new addition, a 63-foot paddle wheeler from Fremont. The latter boat will be used also for giving rides to persons on the July 4 holiday.

Reigning as queen of this year's Venetian Parade will be Jeri Stimp of Adella Beach. In her court will be Sara Kurtz, 809 Maple St., as senior attendant, Jacqueline Anderson, 708 Chestnut St., as junior attendant, Sue Kellett, route 1, Neenah, as sophomore attendant, and Lynne Anderson, 227 Crescent Drive, as freshman attendant.

Police Retrieve Dock

NEENAH — A 25 foot section of dock, floating on Lake Winnebago, was retrieved and towed to shore by the Neenah police boat Monday afternoon after the dock was noticed floating toward the Neenah channel of the Fox River by Mrs. William Wright, Kimberly Point.

She said the dock appeared to be a lat on the water and was a fire hazard when she called police at 1:38 p.m.

To Your Good Health Medical Care Should Begin With Pregnancy

BY JOSEPH G. MOLNER, M.D. if you want a full measure of safety.

Dear Dr. Molner: Just what is meant by a "vaginal repair"? Is it a serious operation? —J. F.M.

The strain of childbirth sometimes stretches supporting tissues of the vaginal tract so that the nearby bladder may sag out of its normal position. This is called cystocele or the rectal area may be displaced (this is called rectocele). The results can be difficult in urination or in bowel action. In the former, chronic inflammation of the bladder (or cystitis) may develop.

Throughout history, up to the last few decades, childbirth has been a dangerous experience. Today, with modern drugs and modern surgery, not to mention germ-free operating rooms and sterile instruments, mortality from childbirth has been reduced to a small fraction of one per cent.

We are prone to recall that years ago women often toiled in the fields until a short time before giving birth, and perhaps were back at work not very long afterwards. These were the young, rugged, fortunate mothers. When we discuss them, we tend to forget how many others died; how many women, old before they should have been, left orphaned children for others to raise.

Childbirth remains a substantial risk in some parts of the world today. Only where good medical care and nursing are available has the danger become small. So — and this is a necessary warning, I'm afraid — we still must use these advantages if we want the benefits. Medical supervision should begin as soon as a pregnancy is known. Don't wait until it's time for the baby to be born.

MENASHA — The Board of Public Works and Water and Light Commission have jointly proceeded with drawings and specifications on the $2.4 million power plant expansion project, approved last month by the Wisconsin Public Service Commission. Council action will be needed.

New Church Confirms First Class

NEENAH — Peace Lutheran Church Sunday confirmed its first children's instruction class with Nancy Ferkovich, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. LeRoy Ferkovich, and James Smestad, son of Mr. and Mrs. Oscar Smestad, being received into communicant membership.

The officiant was the pastor, the Rev. Kenneth Wessel, who noted that his father-in-law, the Rev. Walter Dierks of Canby, had confirmed Mrs. LeRoy Ferkovich, the mother of Nancy, when he was a pastor at Mellen about 20 years ago.

The congregation was organized in December, 1960, with a nucleus of 11 families supplied by Trinity Lutheran Church of Menasha. Services were introduced on March 12, 1961, and the congregation has grown to more than 50 families, 109 communicant members and about 200 baptized souls.

The congregation has contracted for construction of the parsonage for the pastor and his family on S. Park Avenue where the congregation has purchased six acres of land for future location of a church and other needed facilities. It is hoped that ground may be broken for these other facilities in late spring or summer of 1963. A committee now is studying these needs.

The power plant was built in 1948-49 and expanded in 1955. The Aldermen generally agreed the $7,500 cashier's check sent in by Appleton real estate operator Joseph J. Engel should be returned, since they have not decided whether to sell Racine Street Park. Engel had offered $75,000 for the entire park, but would consider only the southerly six lots.

The ban on cars driving into the service lane at Jefferson Park concession stand should be enforced by police, the council agreed after one alderman noted that many are parked on the grass.

Bert Hosterman of Badger Highways Co. wants to install asphalt curb and gutter on Lake Crest and Butte des Morts Drives, of a church and other needed facilities. Edward Stinski informed the group. Hosterman owns much of the land on those streets, where the work is to be performed this year. Public hearing on the project is at 7 p.m. tonight.

Crews Picking Up In Oshkosh, Omro

Oshkosh and Omro crews were working today to clean up the aftermath of what oldtimers called the worst wind storm in the city's history. Restoration of electrical and telephone service was not completed until late Monday and in a few isolated cases this morning.

The pickup problems were much less acute in the other Fox Cities, where the two high velocity wind blasts that hit Sunday night and Monday morning were less severe. Most of the pickup in Appleton, Neenah and Menasha was completed with little effort Monday and early Tuesday.

More reports of damage continued to come in from Oshkosh and Omro today. The James Gavin residence at 79 Lake St. was damaged when a huge ash tree split at 7:20 p.m. Sunday, sending a limb 30-inches in diameter onto the house. The roof was damaged and a porch crushed.

Auction House Ruined
An auction house owned by Richard Kossel near Omro was almost totally destroyed by the wind.

Drunk Driver Fined $150

Waupaca Man Guilty Also of Driving Without License

James A. Forseth, 26, 312 N. Washington St., Waupaca, pleaded guilty of drunken driving and driving without a license before Municipal Justice George Whalen at the Waupaca City Hall this morning.

He was fined $100, his driving privileges were revoked for one year and his chauffeur's license suspended for 15 days on the drunken driving charge. He was fined $50 and costs for driving without a license.

Forseth was arrested by city police about 12:50 a.m. today. They said he drove his car at a high rate of speed turning a corner. The car swerved into the opposite lane of traffic, narrowly avoiding a collision with the city squad car, police said.

He told Justice Whalen that he had lost his driver's license two years ago through the point system. He said he was in the process of getting his license reinstated.

Appleton Youth Uses False Card In Local Tavern

A 19-year-old Appleton youth who told the court he had made a special identification card to purchase beer while he was on vacation in Florida was sentenced to 15 days in county jail and fined $100 when he appeared in County Court, Branch 2 Monday.

David J. Kolosso, 1354 W. Rogers Ave., pleaded guilty to a charge of falsifying an identification card when he appeared before Judge Gustave Keller Friday. Keller ordered the youth held in Outagamie County jail without bond until he was sentenced Monday.

Kolosso altered an identification card by putting an improper birth date on it showing he was 22 years old. Kolosso said he went to Hollywood, Fla., during the spring and used the card there to obtain liquor. He was arrested June 9 when he attempted to use the false card at an Appleton liquor bar.

Driver Claims Four Men Forced Car From Road, Broke Window

A motorist told police late Monday night that four men in a car forced his car from the road, made him stop on several occasions to avoid a collision and broke a window on the passenger side of the car as the two cars were parked for a stop light at Memorial Drive and College Avenue.

Roger Retzlaff, 1215 N. Bennett St., told police he was driving from Menasha to Appleton when another car tried to force him off the road. The other car then passed on the right side and got in front of Retzlaff's car and put on the brakes, forcing Retzlaff to stop suddenly, he said.

Two men came from the second car at the intersection, Retzlaff said, and broke a window, then got back into their car. Retzlaff said he took the license number of the vehicle. Police are investigating.

1,333 Pupils Back in School

Most of Summer Classes Filled; Enrollment Up

A total of 1,333 pupils returned to school Monday for the six-week summer school session of the Appleton public schools.

Most classes are filled to capacity, according to Assistant Supt. of Schools William Spears. Enrollment showed a big jump from the total of 775 pupils in the summer of 1961.

The summer school program includes both remedial and enrichment classes and is open to public and parochial school pupils.

Some 328 youngsters are taking elementary classes at Edison School in arithmetic, earth science, reading and speech. A total of 219 junior high pupils at Wilson Junior High School are studying algebra, arithmetic, modern mathematics, American government, earth science and English.

The high school enrollment totals 326 pupils. They are taking algebra, geometry, art, English, reading and typing.

An additional 460 students are taking instrumental music. Ninety-eight per cent of those who signed up for classes during preregistration showed up for the classes. In the past there has been some difficulty with those registered failing to attend the classes. A registration fee was charged this year.

Spears said he hopes the summer school program can be expanded next year.

The court ordered that traps and other equipment used by Van Stratton April 18, 1959, when he fished on the Wolf River be confiscated. The court also ordered that 25 walleye pike being held by conservation officials for three years, be confiscated.

Boy Leads Five Out of Wind's Smashing Force

Tornado-Like Blow Levels Buildings on Farm Near Appleton

A 14-year-old rural Appleton youth led five youngsters into a cellar Monday noon when heavy winds smashed trees and several outbuildings at their farm home near Greenville.

George Massaros, son of Anthony Massaros, route 1, Appleton, saw to the safety of his sisters, Mary, 15, Sally, 10, and Nancy, 8, and his brother Thomas, 11, when winds ripped through the farm yard between 11:30 a.m. and noon Monday. Also taken to safety was a visiting friend of the Massaros children, 15-year-old Geraldine Moder.

The youngster said he could not tell if the storm was actually a tornado. "When I saw it was blowing pretty hard, I took the rest of the kids into the basement. We were only down there a couple of minutes and it was all over," the teenager, said. "There wasn't time to be frightened," he added.

Corncrib Files
The wind ripped off the top of one tree, blowing it into another stand of trees some distance away. A small shed was smashed and a heavy, steel corncrib was sent whistling about 100 yards off its base into a field. Branches and strips of bark littered the farm yard and a television antenna was torn from the roof.

The Massaros youth said a cat was killed by the raging wind. A dog which had been quartered in the crib escaped without injury. He said the area was hit by a drenching rain and, about five minutes after the rain ceased, the wind picked up and blew in under a heavy overcast.

The elder Massaros was at work when the storm hit.

Renk Busy Seeking Votes In Fox Cities

Hits Milwaukee GOP for Ruling Candidate Choice

Wilbur Renk, Republican candidate for governor, was in the Fox Cities today shaking hands and seeking votes in his bid for the GOP nomination.

In a speech at Alex's Manor House this noon, the Sun Prairie resident charged "Milwaukee kingmakers" were trying to run the Republican Party like a private club by hand-picking the candidates and exercising a veto over individual ambition and desire.

"The people don't want somebody else to tell them who they may vote for," Renk said. "Getting Knowles Votes"

This morning Renk said he was picking up support from Republicans who had supported Warren Knowles in his unsuccessful bid for the GOP organization endorsement. Renk denied out-of-state funds were aiding his campaign.

"Even if funds were offered, I wouldn't take them," Renk said. He stated that most contributions were small.

In other comments, he said: "Religion wouldn't be an issue in the campaign."

"Reapportionment should be taken out of legislative hands."

"The state personal property tax should be abolished."

"Kuehn is a high tax man."

"Wisconsin needs 100,000 new jobs by 1965."

Assessments on Road, Sewer Jobs Proposed

Kaukauna Board Decides to Seek Site for New City Dump

KAUKAUNA—The board of public works Monday night adopted assessments for a storm sewer project and road paving project. The charges will be presented to the council.

An assessment of $1.85 per side lineal foot was approved for a sanitary sewer installation job on Gertrude Street. A concrete road paving project for Margaret, Diedrich and Desnoyer streets would be assessed at $4.90 per side lineal foot under the board's proposal.

Assessment for a concrete road on Idlewild, E. Nineteenth and W. Thirtieth streets and Lehrer Lane was set at $6.21 per foot. Assessment for concrete paving on Island Street was set at $4.65 per square yard. Both are subject to council approval.

Need Dump Area
Board members authorized the city clerk to advertise for a dump site which could be used by the city. Property owners having a asked to check with town and site suitable for dump area will be state officials to determine whether the area meets approval and requirements.

The suggestion was made by Russell Dix, Fourth Ward alderman, who said he has received many complaints about the existing dump site. Fred Reichel, Fifth Ward alderman and one of the senior members of the council, voted against the proposal. He felt the advertising was a waste of money.

He said, he and fellow aldermen had investigated other dump sites for years without success and he offered to throw a party for the council if successful this time.

Letters were read from the City Employee Union asking for an extra man on rubbish trucks to assist with loading of heavy items and complaining about persons expecting city crews to lift containers larger than the size required by city ordinance.

Aldermen felt this matter should have gone before the street department foreman or street superintendent for consideration and recommendation. Aldermen charged that the crews sometimes haul away oversize items as a favor for a friend or for a slight consideration. The crews themselves therefore are partly responsible for other residents putting out large items, they felt.

The board suggested tagging of oversize items by the workers. A follow-up discussion with violators would be conducted by the street department foreman. The crews will be instructed not to collect any items in containers larger than those permitted by ordinance.

Soap Box Derby Plans Announced

Jesse Whittenton, Green Bay Packer player, has been named official starter for the Fox Cities soap box derby July 15.

Final inspection of racers will be at 7 p.m. July 9 at Fire Station No. 4, Greenfield and Meade Streets. All cars must be ready for final inspection and weigh-in. They will be impounded at the fire station until the day of the race.

Positions for the race will be drawn at the time of the final inspection.

The race, sponsored by the Appleton Jaycees, will be on Ballard Road at the intersection of E and EE, starting at 11 a.m. It is open free to the public.

Awards for the race will be given at a dinner at the 41 Bowl following the race. The public is invited. Reservations must be made by July 9 with John Ayers or Jack Horner.

Dubuque Sweeps Twin Bill From Fox Cities, 1-0, 4-1

Foxes Held to One Hit in Opener, Four in Second Game

BY JIM HARP
Post-Crescent Staff Writer

Base hits and runs were at a premium at Goodland Field Monday night, but the Dubuque Packers managed to get a sufficient number to continue their mastery over the Fox Cities Foxes as the Packers swept both ends of a doubleheader, 1-0 and 4-1.

It marked the fifth and sixth times this season the Foxes have lost to Dubuque without notching a victory. In each case, the losses came on the same day as part of a twin bill.

Tonight the scene shifts to Du-

Cincinnati Snaps Losing Streak With 6-5, 4-2 Victories

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Cincinnati's Bob Purkey won his 12th game Monday night—most in the majors—as the Cincinnati Reds swept a doubleheader from the Pittsburgh Pirates, 6-5 and 4-2.

Purkey, a native Pittsburgher who once played for the Pirates, twirled a seven-hitter in the night-going thirteenth inning, striking out three batters and adding a run, going the distance for the ninth time this season. He has only lost once.

The Pirates could get to the big right-hander only once—in the second inning when they scored two runs on a walk, two singles and an interference call. One of the runs was unearned.

Some 21,884 looked on as Vada Pinson, Jerry Lynch, Frank Robinson and Chico Cardenas led the Reds' hitting in both games.

Pinson had four hits in the first game and two in the second, driving in one of the runs. Lynch and Robinson drove in two runs each in the first game and added another each in the nightcap. Lynch slammed his fifth homer in the second game and Robinson got his ninth in the opener.

Cardenas had two hits in both games, including a homer in the first one. Don Blasingame also homered in the opener.

Jocoy Jay picked up his 10th win in the opener as Reds snapped a three-game losing streak. He needed help, however, and tight relief pitching from Jim Brosnan and Johnny Klippstein ended down the victory.

The Pirates collected 12 hits off the Reds in the first game, including six doubles and two triples, but they left eight men on base. Bob Friend went down to his eighth loss in the opener and Al McBean lost his fourth in the nightcap.

Appleton '9' Has 4 Games This Week

New London's Legion Team Plays Here Tonight

The Appleton American Legion baseball team will play four games in five nights, starting today.

At 7:45 today, Appleton will play host to New London in a Fox River Valley Legion League makeup game at Goodland Field. Wednesday night, the Appleton team travels to Clintonville to meet the Central Division leaders.

An exhibition game is slated against Menasha at 6:30 p.m. Friday at Goodland Field. Waukegan will invade Appleton at 7:45 p.m. Saturday for a league contest.

One of the reasons for the heavy, 4-game schedule is to test the team's pitching depth and bench strength. These ingredients loom important if the team is to enter tournament play, according to Manager Bob Beltrone.

Three more exhibition games are being planned. Appleton will play host to Mayville June 26. No dates have been set for games with Rhinelander and a Canadian Legion team from Fort Williams.

Twins Whip Kansas City Behind Camilo Pascual, 9-4

KANSAS CITY (AP)—The Minnesota Twins, after three straight lickings by Kansas City, tromped the A's 9-4 on 17 hits Monday night and moved up half a game on American League—leading Cleveland.

The Indians, now in front by only 1½ games, were idle, along with the rest of the American League.

The Twins' victory snapped Kansas City's winning streak at six games. It was particularly gratifying to Camilo Pascual, the winning pitcher, who had been bombed 6-1 by the A's in the series opener last Friday.

Going into the ninth inning Friday night, Gibson was working on a two-hitter. Wally Moon had lunched him for a couple of singles and the Dodgers had gotten only two men as far as second.

Signs for Fifth Season

Taylor Could Set Packers' All-Time Ground Mark in '62

Post-Crescent News Service

GREEN BAY — Jarrin' Jim Taylor has signed his Packer contract for the 1962 season. Coach Vince Lombardi announced today.

Thus, the way is clear for Taylor to become the Packer's No. 1 all-time ground gainer, providing, of course, he can gain 1,091 yards during the 1962 tour.

Taylor, the big LSU blockbuster, is returning for his fifth season. "Piano legs," as he was nicknamed by the Rams after they tried to tackle him as a rookie in 1958, runs best with competition. Taylor ran like a wildman in his first head-to-head Packer vs. Brown clash with the great Jimmy Brown and the Packer blaster was the winner.

Taylor presently ranks in the No. 3 spot among all-time Packer ground gainers. He has 3,107 yards, Clarke Hinkle 3,877 and leader Tony Canadeo 4,197.

Hornung Fourth

Incidentally, Taylor's famed teammate, Paul Hornung, has leaped into fourth place among the ground leaders with 2,579 yards.

During the 1961 championship year, Taylor rolled up 1,307 yards—an average of 93 per game. Brown beat him out for the season, totaling 1,408 yards.

During his 4-year career, Taylor ran 645 times for 3,107 yards—an average of 4.8 per carry.

Jim turned into quite a scorer last year, leading the league with 16 touchdowns, 15 of them by rushing.

Taylor now ranks ninth among all-time Packer scorers, with 222 points on 37 touchdowns.

Lombardi told about the new National Football League Hall of Fame in Canton, O., at the week-end Mike and Pen Club luncheon Monday noon.

He explained various procedures of selection. Lombardi said the hall of fame will be opened by the end of the year. A game will be played in each of the next seven years, starting this season, to help finance the project. Each team will be required to play there once in the next seven years.

Tommy Davis' Homer Gives Koufax, Dodgers 1-0 Victory Over Cards

SANDY STRIKES OUT NINE, HIKES TOTAL FOR SEASON TO 146

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sandy Koufax opens his own motel in West Hollywood today, but he is given little chance of doing any business with visiting National League clubs.

You could hardly expect them to deal with an innkeeper who gives them nightmares.

Take the St. Louis Cardinals. They transacted some business with Koufax Monday night while he was engaged in his outside job—as a pitcher for the Los Angeles Dodgers.

It was not an experience calculated to induce untroubled sleep.

Koufax, picking up his 10th victory in 12 decisions, pitched a five-hitter, struck out nine and for the first time in his career went nine full innings without giving up a walk.

RBI Leader

Tommy Davis, who leads the majors in runs batted in with 69, broke a scoreless tie by lining a home run into the left-field stands with one out in the ninth inning.

The 1-0 victory put the Dodgers a game and a half ahead of the second-place San Francisco Giants, who were idle.

It did not take long for Cardinal right-hander Bob Gibson to recall when he had suffered a similarly painful defeat. A year ago in St. Louis, with Koufax pitching for the Dodgers, Gibson lost by the same score—on a home run by Tommy Davis.

Going into the ninth inning Friday night, Gibson was working on a two-hitter. Wally Moon had lunched him for a couple of singles and the Dodgers had gotten only two men as far as second.

base. Gibson had struck out eight and walked four.

He fanned Davis twice before Tommy unloaded his 13th homer.

Koufax didn't allow an extra-base hit and let the Cards get only one runner to second. Outside their five singles, only one ball was hit to the Dodger outfield.

Koufax, one of the wildest pitchers in the majors a few seasons ago, has struck out 146 and walked only 31 in 125 1-3 innings this season. That's an average of about one walk every four innings.

Although Los Angeles was rated a contender largely on the strength of its pitching, Sandy's shutout was the first by a Dodger pitcher in 69 games this season.

Cub Mentor Beaming Over 4-Game Chain

CHICAGO (AP)—Enjoying their longest winning streak of the year, the Chicago Cubs rested Monday before invading Philadelphia tonight.

The four-game winning streak at the expense of the New York Mets had current head coach Charlie Metro beaming. "I believe we're on the way to a winning record from here on in," said Metro. "There were some indications of improvement in the series with the Mets which should make us a far more solid ball club."

Nevertheless, the Cubs had four players on the injured list. They were pitcher Dave Gerard and outfielders Lou Brock, George Altman and Don Landrum. All but Landrum will be able to play against the Phils. Landrum pulled a muscle in his leg.

The Cubs, who trail the eighth place Phils by five games, will send Cal Koonce (4-2) against Dick Bennett (2-2).

Annual Amateur Test to Open in Toledo Wednesday

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP)—More than half of the expected entries in the 14th annual World Amateur Wrestling Championships were on hand today, working out travel kinks and getting accustomed to the heat and humidity.

Tournament officials expect nearly 300 of the world's best wrestlers at the opening ceremonies Wednesday.

Freestyle wrestling begins Thursday and ends Saturday night. Sunday's biennial congress of the World Amateur Wrestling Federation will be followed by three days of Greco-Roman style wrestling, beginning Monday.

On hand Monday were all or parts of the teams from Turkey, Russia, Iran, Sweden, South Korea, South Africa, Argentina, Panama, Japan, Mexico, and Bulgaria.

Training at West Point

The U.S. team, training at West Point, N.Y., is not expected until tonight.

The Russians and Turks both staged vigorous workouts and both had some mild complaints about the two-composition sponge rubber mats, which will be used during the tournament.

With the temperature in the sticky 90s, the sweat was pouring off the wrestlers. The Russians felt that the surface of the mat was too slippery. The Turks noted that their heavily-perspiring boys were having trouble executing one of their favorite maneuvers, the "bridge," in which they snap their heads backward to the mat to keep their shoulders from being pinned to it.

Report Russians Unhappy

But to reports that the Russians were unhappy with their Toledo University accommodations, the Soviet spokesman shrugged his shoulders and said:

"That is not so. We are all right and in as good a condition as anyone else. But I will say that it is very hot here."

Both Russia and Turkey are figured as the most likely challengers to the Iranian team. The Iranians won five of the eight freestyle championships at the world tournament in Yokohama, Japan, last year and all five of their medal winners are back this year.

Two gold medal winners and two silver medal winners from the 1960 Olympics are on the Turkish team and they looked strong and fast in their workout.

Most grateful for the leg-stretching exercise were the seven Mexican wrestlers who rode a bus for four days from Mexico City.

Australian Tennis Unit Gets Apology From Darlene Hard

MELBOURNE, Australia (AP)—American tennis star Darlene Hard, who last February called the Lawn Tennis Association of Australia "stingy," now wants to return to Australia for the next summer season.

Miss Hard was quoted in the United States magazine World Tennis as saying she was treated like a puppet when she toured Australia last summer, and would never return.

But Monday night the LTA said it received a letter from her asking whether the association would be interested in a tour accompa-

Indians Gain In Attendance

Milwaukee Shows Largest Deficit In Major Leagues

NEW YORK (AP)—The Cleveland Indians pulled 141,548 customers through the turnstiles for their week-end series with the New York Yankees and moved 126,083 ahead of last year's home attendance pace.

Only the Los Angeles Dodgers, who lead the big leagues with 907,228 paid, show a larger increase. The Dodgers are 248,684 ahead of 1961.

The Indians have played before 337,353 fans compared to 211,271 in as many 1961 home dates.

Other clubs showing a gain are the Los Angeles Angels (119,958), Washington (71,839), St. Louis (61,540), San Francisco (57,268), New York Yankees (52,675), Philadelphia (45,469) and Cincinnati (1,546).

Others Trailing

The Milwaukee Braves have the largest deficit, 147,422. Others who trail last year's pace are the Chicago Cubs (125,386), Kansas City (110,417), Pittsburgh (77,284), Baltimore (67,800), Boston (65,123), Detroit (40,376), Chicago White Sox (40,307) and Minnesota (28,016).

The Houston Colts have a home attendance of 527,333 for 34 dates while the New York Mets, the other new National League team, have drawn 384,457 in 23 appearances.

The 20 major league clubs have a total attendance of 7,814,433 compared to 6,820,715 for eight teams in 1961. This represents an increase of 14.6 per cent through Sunday's games.

Tops Scandinavia; Ken Schmelzel Pitches Shutout

NEW LONDON — The New London Merchants stretched their string of wins to six Sunday when they downed Scandinavia, 7-3, in inter-division play of the BABA.

In other games played by Southern division teams, Greenville whipped Bear Creek, 6-0; Hortonville was defeated, 9-3, by Amherst; Waupaca edged Iola, 4-3; and Big Falls downed Manawa, 5-3.

New London took a 3-run lead in the first inning. The first three men to face pitcher Marvin Jacobson banged out singles. A total of four hits and a walk were given up in the first inning before Jacobson put out the fire.

The Merchants added one run in the third on a double by Karl Kalbus and a single by Herb Wilde. The final three runs for New London were chalked up in the sixth.

Winning pitcher Dave Umnus held the Scandinavia hitters to four hits in the first eight innings he pitched. Kalbus came in with one out in the ninth and struck out the last two hitters, after Umnus had given up three hits and two runs. Scandinavia scored their only other run in the eighth.

Takes 2-Run Lead

Hortonville also jumped off to a 2-run lead in their game with Amherst that was played on the Dale diamond, but the lead was short-lived when Amherst came back in the second to score two runs, then added two more in the third. Hortonville scored its third run in the third. Amherst took two insurance runs in the fourth and three in the ninth.

Dernbach was credited with the win. He struck out 10, walked two and gave up five hits. The losing pitcher, Wayne Huettl, struck out three, walked 14 and allowed six hits.

Two home runs were hit in the Waupaca-Iola game — the first by Bob Hanson for Waupaca in the sixth and the other by Helgeson for Iola in the eighth.

Iola picked up single runs in the first and third to hold a 2-1 lead until the sixth when the Lakemen took over by scoring two runs. Waupaca scored its final run in the seventh.

The winning pitcher was Bob Weller, who didn't walk a batter while striking out nine. The loss went to Lisney, who struck out eight and walked six.

Ken Schmelzel, of Greenville, struck out 20 Bear Creek hitters. He walked three. Greenville scored single runs in the first, second and ninth innings. It collected three runs in the sixth on a walk, two errors and then a triple by Schmelzel, scoring two runs.

The losing pitcher was Malliet was struck out seven and walked three.

NEW LONDON — The New London Merchants stretched their string of wins to six Sunday when they downed Scandinavia, 7-3, in inter-division play of the BABA.

In other games played by Southern division teams, Greenville whipped Bear Creek, 6-0; Hortonville was defeated, 9-3, by Amherst; Waupaca edged Iola, 4-3; and Big Falls downed Manawa, 5-3.

New London took a 3-run lead in the first inning. The first three men to face pitcher Marvin Jacobson banged out singles. A total of four hits and a walk were given up in the first inning before Jacobson put out the fire.

The Merchants added one run in the third on a double by Karl Kalbus and a single by Herb Wilde. The final three runs for New London were chalked up in the sixth.

Winning pitcher Dave Umnus held the Scandinavia hitters to four hits in the first eight innings he pitched. Kalbus came in with one out in the ninth and struck out the last two hitters, after Umnus had given up three hits and two runs. Scandinavia scored their only other run in the eighth.

Takes 2-Run Lead

Hortonville also jumped off to a 2-run lead in their game with Amherst that was played on the Dale diamond, but the lead was short-lived when Amherst came back in the second to score two runs, then added two more in the third. Hortonville scored its third run in the third. Amherst took two insurance runs in the fourth and three in the ninth.

Dernbach was credited with the win. He struck out 10, walked two and gave up five hits. The losing pitcher, Wayne Huettl, struck out three, walked 14 and allowed six hits.

Two home runs were hit in the Waupaca-Iola game — the first by Bob Hanson for Waupaca in the sixth and the other by Helgeson for Iola in the eighth.

Iola picked up single runs in the first and third to hold a 2-1 lead until the sixth when the Lakemen took over by scoring two runs. Waupaca scored its final run in the seventh.

The winning pitcher was Bob Weller, who didn't walk a batter while striking out nine. The loss went to Lisney, who struck out eight and walked six.

Ken Schmelzel, of Greenville, struck out 20 Bear Creek hitters. He walked three. Greenville scored single runs in the first, second and ninth innings. It collected three runs in the sixth on a walk, two errors and then a triple by Schmelzel, scoring two runs.

The losing pitcher was Malliet was struck out seven and walked three.

Kenya Runner Does '100' in 9.2 Seconds

Because of Wind, Effort Won't Get Record Recognition

DUBLIN, Ireland (AP) — Serafino Antao of Kenya outran Paul White of Cornell University by eight yards Monday night and clocked a fantastic 9.2 seconds for 100 yards in an international track and field meet.

That equals the world record. But Antao's run will not be put forward as a record because of a 9-mile-per-hour following wind.

White, of Chevy Chase, Md., took second place by inches from Larry Devitt, a local runner.

The combined track and field team of Cornell and Pennsylvania universities completed here.

Cornell's Robert Schmitt, of Short Hills, N.J., won the javelin event with a throw of 209 feet, 9 inches. He defeated Irish champion John Lawson, who threw 194-5.

Win High Jump

Cornell's Thomas Mikulins, of Park Ridge, Ill., cleared 6 feet 4 inches in the high jump and Ronnie Martin of Dublin was second with 5-10.

Prescott Blatterman of New York City, a member of the Penn team, led all the way in the 120-yard hurdles and won in 14.8 seconds. He finished three yards ahead of Fred Kiddleton of Dublin University.

The combined 440 yard relay team of Cornell and Pennsylvania finished four yards ahead of the behind the 2-hit pitching of Budland. The Americans — Lanny Edelson of Philadelphia, Harry Retts of Beverly, Mass., Paul White and Ron Heinz of New Rochelle, N.Y.,—clocked 43.1 seconds.

DeBusschere Is Signed to Cage Pact by Pistons

DETROIT (AP) — Dave DeBusschere, a pitcher for the Chicago White Sox, signed to play a second professional sport Monday by agreeing to a contract with the Detroit Pistons of the National Basketball Association.

DeBusschere was a third team All-American at the University of Detroit in the 1961-62 basketball season. Shortly after Detroit was eliminated from the NCAA tournament, DeBusschere signed a reported $70,000 bonus baseball contract with the White Sox and is currently on their pitching staff.

He signed a 1-year NBA pact for an estimated $15,000 and will report to the Pistons' training camp after the baseball season ends.

Calm Delays Entire Fleet In Newport-Bermuda Races

HAMILTON, Bermuda (AP) — 11 minute record for the 635-mile Craft in the Newport-Bermuda racing fleet have been slowed. The record was set by the yawl Bolero in 1956.

Other boats in the first group on the edge of the big calm are Cotton Blossom, Malay and Royona. These yachts are in the Class A, or big boat division.

Class B

Another group of yachts centered about 50 miles further away, still holding a good breeze on a starboard reach and making knots over a smooth sea. This group, mostly from Class B, included Drumbeat of England, Seafarer, Diocenes, Pacifica, White Mist, Rob Roy, Fleetwind, Souvenir, Hironelle, Lady Linden, Swamp Yankee and Prima Donna.

Since Swamp Yankee in Class A has an allowance of one day, 2 hours and 20 minutes, she has—5-7, 6-4, at this stage of the game—a good chance of victory on corrected time. The 41-foot yawl is owned by W. Van Alan Clark, Jr., of Bungert in the deciding match, 6-2, 0-6, 8-6, 6-2.

Then Cliff Drysdale, a 21-year-old student at the University of Texas upset Germany's Wilhelm of Bungert in the deciding match, 6-2, 0-6, 8-6, 6-2.

Three Objectives Spur Orioles in 2-Game Series With Yankees

Baltimore Seeks To Extend Streak, Boost Attendance

BALTIMORE (AP)—The Baltimore Orioles will have three goals in mind when they take on the New York Yankees in a two-game series opening here tonight:

1. Continue their own winning streak of four, which has enabled the Orioles to climb into fifth place, 5 1/2 games behind league-leading Cleveland.

2. Put additional pressure on the skidding Yanks, who have dropped seven of their last eight while tumbling into third place, and the plate umpire, but to no avail.

Major scoring threat for the Foxes in the first game came in the sixth when Bob Lewandowski walked after one out. John Price fanned for the second out and Bob Litchfield and Dan Markowski each drew a pass to load the bases. Ripken fanned to end the budding rally.

Fans 11 Foxes

Moser, who hiked his record to 5-2, fanned 11 Foxes in the seven innings. He walked only the three men in the sixth. Watt did a creditable job, striking out five and walking just two while hurling the 2-hitter.

In the second tilt, Steve Bailey handcuffed the Foxes on four hits. He allowed three safeties in the first two frames and then stopped the losers cold until Litchfield singled in the sixth.

The Foxes grabbed a 1-0 lead with a run in the last of the first when Bill Hartshorn walked and scored on Iglesias' single. The Packers iced it for Bailey in the

The lead was short-lived, however, as Dubuque tied it in the second without the aid of a base hit. Henderson reached second on a two-base error and after one out Roman walked. Jim Zeiter lofted a long fly to right and Henderson tagged up after the catch and went to third. On the next pitch, Roman tried to steal second and was caught in a rundown. While he was being tagged out at second, Henderson romped home with the run.

Ahead in Fourth

Dubuque went ahead in the fourth when Bob Santana doubled and scored on Iglesias' single. The Packers iced it for Bailey in the

Bruce Tulloh, 6-Mile Whiz, Defends Barefoot Running

LONDON (AP)—Bruce Tulloh, a tiny, 112-pound botanist who has run the world's fastest six miles this year, today came to the defense of barefoot running.

The 24-year-old Tulloh scorns shoes on the track and knows he's considered somewhat of an eccentric when he runs. But he shrugs it off.

Best This Year

"The important thing about running barefoot," he said, "is that it makes you feel free. It also makes you lighter, but I guess it's really psychological."

Just last week in the British AAU Games here, Tulloh clocked 27:57.4 for the 6-mile grind. That's the best in the world this year and stamps him as one of the outstanding threats for the 5,000 meters (a little over three miles) in the 1964 olympics.

The world record is 27:43.8, held by Sandor Iharos of Hungary.

"There's no joke about it," said Tulloh. "I run better in bare feet. It's as simple as that. I took off my shoes originally when I was running on grass a long, long time ago."

"Then three years ago, I tried it on a cinder track and I didn't get cut up. The grass had toughened my feet."

Now nothing bothers his toes. During May, he figures he ran about 240 miles in training on cricket fields and in woods, mostly in bare feet.

"They're as tough as leather now," he observed. At the moment, Tulloh is the fastest man in Britain in the 1-mile, 3-mile and 6-mile distances.

"Tulloh is in condition now to break the world record in both the 6-mile and 3-mile (13:10 by Murray Halberg of New Zealand) runs," said Gordon Pirie, one of Britain's greatest distance runners.

Landstad Sure Of First-Round Title Share

Blanks Seymour in Dairyland League, Plays Nichols Next

Landstad clinched at least a share of the first-round championship in the Dairyland Baseball League by beating Seymour, 3-0, Sunday afternoon.

In other games, Bonduel edged Navarino, 3-2; Black Creek nipped Garrow, 7-5 and Hofa Park thumped Nichols, 16-9. If Landstad defeats winless Nichols next Sunday, it will clinch the undisputed first-half title.

Ken Seering hurled Landstad's shutout over Seymour as he allowed six hits and fanned eight batters. Seering issued nine bases on balls to keep himself in trouble, but Seymour stranded 14 runners. Paul Coppo, the losing hurler, gave up only five hits, struck out 10 and walked two.

Landstad scored all three runs in the eighth inning on an error singles by Pete Westphal and Lee Otto and a double by Elmer Richter.

New Report Lists Ten 'Wealthiest' Unions

BY VICTOR RIESEL

On the gracious green lawn behind the Shoreham Hotel one recent night, banker and "boss"—as the old revolutionaries have it—mixed with national labor chiefs. As they cocktailed at the edge of the fountain you could not tell the difference between executives—labor and business—without a guide.

This scene flashed back to me as I examined financial statements gotten up for the first time in history and just made available by Secretary of Labor Arthur Goldberg.

These disclosed that the union with the biggest gross receipts is the United Steelworkers of America. In 1961, it can now be reported exclusively, the steel union took in over $65,126,000. Of this amount, some $37 million was in dues. Over four million more came from investments, sales of land, rentals on buildings, etc. Of the dues, about half (almost $29 million) was turned back to the locals.

10 "Wealthiest"

I have before me the list of the 10 "wealthiest" unions in the land. Running a close second to the Steelworkers is the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers. Last year they collected from all sources—dues, initiation fees, profits on investments in mortgages and housing projects, etc. $62,273,000.

Next in sequence according to income is Walter Reuther's United Auto Workers. It booked $50,668,000.

Then the International Typographical Union with $25,963,000. In this international union also is the nation's most solvent local unit. This is the "Big Six" of New York City. It grossed $11,800,000. This figure includes the receipts of the sale of bonds totaling over $5 million.

Fifth of the national unions is Dave Dubinsky's Ladies' Garment Workers. It totaled $21,702,000.

Teamster's Last

Then the Brotherhood of Carpenters with $20,114,000. Right behind the Carpenters is the International Assn. of Machinists which amassed $18,723,000. Then the John L. Lewis United Mine Workers with $18,575,000. Next is the Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen. It received $12,358,000.

Oddly enough, the last in this top ten is Jimmie Hoff's Teamsters Brotherhood. In '61 it took in $11,848,000. Since then the union has increased its dues to give it another eight or ten million dollars a year.

These hundreds of millions of dollars for these 10 unions are cash "inflow" for "outgo." These funds should not be confused with special pools of cash, such as vacation funds, which are held by

Cool Weather Starts Trip Across State

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

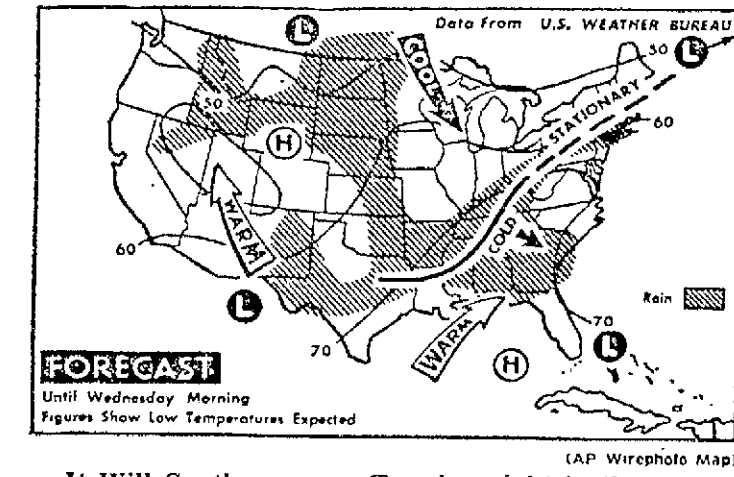

Wisconsin skies were clear in the northwest and cloudy in the southeast today with mid-morning temperatures ranging from 53 degrees in the Superior-Duluth area to 62 at Milwaukee.

Cooler weather moving in from the northwest resulted in clearing skies in that area. Low temperatures during the night ranged from 41 at Superior-Duluth to 61 in Milwaukee.

Appleton residents can expect a high temperature today of 75 with the low tonight predicted at 55. Wednesday's high will be around 75. Winds throughout the coming 24-hour period will be northwesterly from 8 to 12 miles an hour. There is no chance of showers until Wednesday afternoon.

The mercury hit 91 degrees at Milwaukee airport Monday. Other maximum readings included Beloit-Rockford area 88, Madison 82, Lone Rock and Green Bay 80, La Crosse 76, Wausau 75, Eau Claire 69, Park Falls 66.

The hottest spot in the nation Monday was Thermal, Calif., with 109 degrees. The coolest early today was Drummond, Mont., with 38.

It Will Continue warm Tuesday night in the south-east, in the southern plains and the plateau states, while cooler weather is expected in parts of the Mississippi valley and in the Lakes area. Scattered thunderstorms are forecast for most of the nation except the West Coast, the Mississippi valley, the Lakes area and northern New England.

Census Bureau Wants to Rely On Individual

Citizens Filling Out Forms Would Replace Hired Men

WASHINGTON — The Census Bureau is testing a plan to make every man his own census taker in 1970.

Field trials have been started in two cities to see if John G. Public can be relied upon to fill out a form received in the mail and return it.

The tests so far show it to be 85 per cent successful in Fort Smith, Ark., and 60 per cent effective in Skokie, Ill.

"If the thing works, it could mean a great saving — in terms of millions of dollars," a bureau spokesman said.

Cutting Down Staff

In 1960, the bureau cut down on its manpower needs by mailing forms to residences and sending the census taker around to pick them up after they had been filled in.

Even with this change, it had to pay 180,000 census takers $12 a day. The field calls accounted for more than 40 per cent of the 1960 operation's $100,000,000 cost.

Under the system now being considered, the census taker would call only on those citizens who fail to return their forms or who fill them in improperly. The latter could be handled by telephone.

Publicity Helps

Pleased by the 85 per cent return at Fort Smith, bureau officials think it's a better indication of how it would work on a national basis than the less successful Skokie operation. They credit the difference to the strong publicity campaign in Fort Smith.

It was harder to spread the word in Skokie, a Chicago suburb, and "many people said they hadn't heard of it," the bureau spokesman said.

The Census Bureau expects that the law requiring citizens to answer questions asked by a census taker in person can be applied to require them to return the written forms.

More Testing in Future

The system will get more trials, with variations, between now and 1970. The testing grounds will be cities that ask for special interim census taking at their own expense.

Biggest problem is expected to be building up a file of addresses to which to send the forms. The procedure is to start with the 1960 list and add new addresses from the building permit records. The forms are addressed to "Occupant."

At this point, the scheme is still "in the very early testing stage," the Census Bureau said.

GOP Failing Its Primary Obligation

Lack of Militancy Noted in the Role Of Loyal Opposition

BY DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON — There is something missing on the national scene. There's a noticeable absence of militancy on the part of most of the Republicans. They are not exactly acquiescing in what the Kennedy administration is doing, but they certainly are not giving the country the vigorous criticism expected from the "loyal opposition" party.

It's true that two weeks ago the Republican membership of the Senate and House issued "a Declaration of Republican Principle and Policy," but it hasn't awakened in the electorate throughout the country any crusading enthusiasm.

Maybe it's because the statement was phrased in a lot of high-falutin' words and didn't get down to brass tacks. What the voters like to hear is something direct and simple that they can understand. They want to know when things are going to get better and who is going to make them better. They might even be persuaded to believe that the Republican Party is the party of "good business" and that the Democratic Party is the party of "bad business" — if somebody of prominence in every congressional district could explain that to them in understandable terms and phrases.

Abstract Query
The Republican statement of a fortnight ago started out by defining as "the great issue of 1962" this question: "Which party acts more effectively to preserve and enlarge human freedom?" This, in itself, is a very abstract query. The statement might better have said flatly that the real issue is: "Which party gives you a chance to earn more money and keep more money — and which party gives you assurance that you'll continue to have your job and that there will be a job for your boy when he gets out of school?"

Instead, the Republicans described the main issue in four "rests" (This is real old cops and sentences of their declaration of principle as follows: "The current administration has shown little understanding of, or concern for, institutions that buttress freedom at home — separation of powers, checks and balances, state and local responsibility, and a free competitive economy. It has demonstrated neither the wit nor the will to meet effectively the assault of international communism on freedom.

Erosion of Freedom
"We Republicans cannot witness the erosion of freedom without warning or protest. We propose a new direction for public policy in order to advance the cause of freedom at home and throughout the world."

This may all be very sound, but it's hardly concrete enough for the perplexed voter to grasp. The statement, moreover, declared that Republican philosophy stands for the return home to "rests on the doctrines that the individual has a God-given dignity, and that government exists to serve him" and that "government should do for people only the things they cannot do for themselves." This reads well enough for those who are familiar with the debate between the exponents of centralized power and the believers in less meddling by government. But it doesn't tell the average man what a growing dictatorship in government means to his everyday life and his future. It doesn't tell him that, since the days of our forefathers, the threat of an all-powerful government and a police state has been hanging over this republic and has to be constantly fought as it rears its head each time an emergency arises in the economic life of the country.

The trouble with the Republicans is that lately they have not been aggressive in politics. They are too restrained. They like to get everybody to agree on generalities. The difficulty with statements of principle is that, after everybody puts in his two cents' worth at the party conferences, the result is a namby-pamby utterance which doesn't arouse the voters to get into the fight and to enlist their friends and neighbors, too.

One Main Issue
There is only one issue on the domestic front that counts. It's based on the pocketbook. Things are not going well nowadays. The stock market drop reflects a widespread uneasiness about the man at the wheel in the White House. He himself isn't up for re-election this year. But if more radicals and more rubber-stamp representatives and senators are elected this November, the coalition of non-socialists from the north and south, which in the last 15 years has saved America from state socialism, will be weakened and perhaps rendered powerless to stem the tide. Business then

Mrs. Ernie Kovacs Refuses Help Of Stars, Settles Accounts Herself

BY BOB THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD — (AP) — "In another two months everything will be in the clear," said Edie Adams of the tangled affairs left her on the death of her comedian husband Ernie Kovacs.

When Kovacs died in a car crash Jan. 13, the family finances were found to be jumbled, with debts owed to Uncle Sam and others. A host of stars, from Jack Lemmon to Frank Sinatra, started to organize a television series or special to raise funds.

Edie thanked them for their good wishes but said she would handle the problem herself.

"It has taken a lot of effort," she remarked, "but I think everything is getting squared away. The taxes will be settled in two months and I have made arrangements to buy back the house."

"It's a big house, but I like it. Most of all, the children like it. Losing Ernie has been tough enough without having to change their home. At their age, familiarity counts a great deal, and that's what I want to keep for them."

The comedienne managed to put the family affairs in order by hard work. When I saw her, she was working her hardest — doing a wild, wild scene with Sid Caesar in "It's a Mad, Mad, Mad, Mad World." Their clothes tattered and spattered with paint, they were locked in a hardware store while fireworks — real ones — exploded all around them.

"It's crazy, but I love it," she said as she staggered out of the scene. "It's good for me to be busy. Besides this picture, I'm in the process of preparing eight television specials for next season. I just signed with Decca for a record album. I'll be playing Las Vegas in October. And I plan to start work on preparing a show for me on Broadway."

"Oh, I've learned a lot in these past few months. Before, I couldn't even make my check stubs balance for expenses like the children's piano lessons. I didn't even try to understand anything about finances."

"I have an entirely different attitude toward my career, too. Before, I didn't really care. If work came along — fine. But I never went after it. Now I have a reason to work at my career. It's good for me."

Alan King, Knotts Join Garry Moore

BY TV SCOUT

9-10 (Channel 2-7-12) — Jolly good fun reigns on The Garry Moore Show, which has gathered Alan King and Don Knotts to help Carol Burnett and Durward Kirby with the comedy, plus the lovely Barbara McNair for a musical treat. King does a particularly funny monologue, with insurance as his target.

7-7:30 (Channel 2-12) — This is a good night for Garry Moore. Carol Burnett fans, for they'll be on Password, as well as their own show.

7:30-8 (Channel 2-7-12) — It is the delicious idea of the Dobie Gillis people to have Maynard Krebs (Bob Denver) play a great lover when the co-eds, whose boyfriends are away, realize he's the perfect date — their steadiest would never be jealous of him.

7:30-8 (Channel 4-5) — There was some doubt that tonight's Alfred Hitchcock Presents would ever get on the air — the story has a particularly sadistic ending. The plot involves a beatnik couple (Brian Hutton and Anne Helm) and the square boy who falls for her (Wayne Rogers). Hutton talks Miss Helm into being nice to Rogers, to get what she can out of him, and she reluctantly agrees.

7:30-8:30 (Channel 11) — The New Breed concludes its two-part repeat, which takes us back to the gangster movies of the '30s (or The Untouchables of the '60s). This is real old cops and robbers stuff, with no attempt made to drag in anything as new-fangled as subtlety. It winds up with a shoot-out in a supermarket which makes Elliot Ness and his gang look like Boy Scouts.

8-9 (Channel 4-5) — A love story, something television seldom does, is the menu on the Dick Powell Show repeat tonight. It stars Carolyn Jones and Powell. Miss Jones is a wealthy widow who vanished after her husband committed suicide. Powell is the missing persons detective who finds her as an alcoholic and tenderly nurses her back to respectability before returning her to her family.

9-9:30 (Channel 11) — Alcoa Premiere has an adaptation of Arthur Miller short story, "It Takes a Thief." It tells of a couple (Edward Andrews and Constance Ford) who return home to find their house has been robbed. With the ordinary loot, the thief has taken the money. Answer her for years.

10-10:30 (Channel 5) 11 (Channel 4) — Tonight host Steve Lawrence greets Jennie Smith, Kaye Ballard, Phil Foster, and Barry Gray.

Off-Broadway Musical Still Popular Abroad

NEW YORK (AP) — The off-Broadway musical "The Fantasticks" continues hit progress abroad.

The show, already produced in London, Mexico City, Johannesburg and Stockholm is set for seven further foreign companies — in Belgrade, Tel Aviv, Buenos Aires, Oslo, Copenhagen, Gothenburg and Helsingborg, Sweden.

would get worse, and unemployment would rise.

For the real issue of 1962 is whether private business is going to be permitted to function naturally and to expand normally, or whether government is going to try to run everything. The Republicans can in the 1962 campaign draw this line clearly. The people can come to understand the effects on their wages, their salaries, their savings and their opportunities to move ahead toward a better life. The people don't understand "sophisticated" ideas, but they do understand dollars and cents and the worries that come with recessions and depressions.

Playwright Anderson Offers First Broadway Play in Three Years

NEW YORK (AP) — After a three-year intermission, Robert Anderson has a new play ready for Broadway exhibit.

"The Days Between," concerning the marital woes of a college professor, is on the agenda of Leland Hayward, currently the producer of "A Shot in the Dark" and "The Sound of Music."

Anderson established himself on Broadway with "Tea and Sympathy," and is most recently represented with "Silent Night, Lonely Night," during the 1959-'60 season.

Musical Comedy Star Goes Dramatic in Play

NEW YORK (AP) — Switching from song and comedy, Carol Channing has signed for her first straight dramatic role on Broadway.

The saucer-eyed performer is to appear in "The King's Ransom," a play adapted by Anita Loos from a French script by Jeanne Camille. Miss Channing will portray Anne of Cleves, fourth wife of Henry VIII in the costume show.

The production is on the agenda of Fred Coe and Arthur Cantor for presentation in January 1963.

London Productions of Wheeler Dramas Set

NEW YORK (AP) — Two plays by Hugh Wheeler which Broadway inspected in separate seasons are scheduled for London presentation soon.

"Look, We've Come Through," seen here recently, is to have Elizabeth Seal as leading lady. "Big Fish, Little Fish," has claimed the services of Hume Cronyn and Jessica Tandy. The latter play, set down for June debut, has been extensively rewritten by the author from the version shown here during the 1960-'61 season.

Dancer, Millionaire, Author Tries Musical

NEW YORK (AP) — Nicolas Darvas, the dancer who wrote a best-seller called "How I Made $2,000,000 in the Stock Market," is going to try his skill next at Broadway production.

He has launched plans for a musical with a get-rich-quick scheme as its plot. The adaptation of Darvas' story line is by Jacques Wilson. Estimated cost of the show is $350,000.

"I have the means to produce it and I hope the ability," the author declared.

Standard Oil Stresses Top Grade TV Shows

Ignores Ratings to Bring Quality Productions to Viewers of Series

BY MILT FREUDENHEIM
Chicago Daily News Service

NEW YORK — One of the most revolutionary adventures in television land is the work of a business giant rarely thought of as "radical."

For three seasons Standard Oil Co. (New Jersey) has been paying for television shows stressing quality at the expense of quantity.

Ratings, indicating mass audiences, are regarded coolly when noticed at all.

"I don't know what the ratings are," said David A. Shepard, Executive Vice President, about the current series "Festival of Performing Arts."

"It doesn't really make any difference," he added. "I know perfectly well the series is making friends for the Standard Oil Co."

Critics have lauded the festival. Some 3 to 6 per cent of 5,000,000 television sets in the New York area have turned it on, one rating service asserts.

After Standard launches them in the East, other sponsors pick up the taped shows for other areas.

Previous Shows
Among the items in a 10-week series have been: a repeat of cellist Pablo Casals' White House concert, a revival of a two-man Broadway comedy revue by Britton's Michael Flanders and Donald Swann; concerts by the Budapest String Quartet with pianist Rudolf Serkin, baritone George Segal, violinist Isaac Stern, classical guitarist Andres Segovia; poetry readings by Paul Schofield and Dorothy Stickney; Dorothy Parker dramatic sketches by Margaret Leighton and a musical revue by Cyril Ritchard and Hermione Baddeley.

Jersey Standard's Shepard admits that his company's interest in television is a very special case.

In the first place, it is a holding company that doesn't sell anything to the public except good will and stock.

Secondly, Standard Oil has "a special kind of background." It lost a great antitrust suit in 1911. It deal in oil, which is customarily under "public scrutiny."

Third, it is, like many other giant businesses, rich enough and concerned enough to want to spend millions of dollars on making friends.

Humble Sponsors Programs
The holding company leaves it to its operating offshoot Humble Oil and Refining Co. to sponsor mass appeal television shows.

Standard Oil started to present high culture on television in spring, 1960, more or less by accident.

An independent New York station was presenting "The Play of the Week," taped plays by top Broadway actors. The series ran out of money. A television columnist appealed for public support.

His paper and the station received nearly 30,000 letters, some enclosing money. Standard Oil's public relations experts were deeply ly impressed. They decided to sponsor the series.

The first budget was $500,000 to $600,000, later expanded to $900,000 when additional programs were added.

This amount, while large, is "relatively peanuts" compared to the expenses of mass consumer television advertising. Shepard notes.

The company made a policy of soft-pedaling commercials and announcing that it was keeping hands off of the artistic content of the plays. This policy has been continued in other Standard Oil shows.

"It would be presumptuous of us to seek to exercise any (artistic) control," says Shepard.

(This is a statement that must twist the heartstrings of artists, directors and writers impaled by the sponsor's censor pencil in mass TV.)

"The Play of the Week" earned the company 6,500 letters of praise and much favorable comment in newspapers and magazines. The taped series was shown on a syndicated basis by other sponsors around the country.
